

Village of Continental Swept by Raging Fire; No Water Available

Manager of Water Works Plant Is In Pasteur Institute With Mad Dog Victims and Town Is Without Fire Protection--Business District Razed.

The town of Continental, thirty miles northwest of this city, in Putnam county, was nearly wiped out last night by a fire which started in the business district on the west side of the main street and swept through the business district and a portion of the residence district, razing a path through the entire town from the extreme northern limits down to the Clover Leaf railroad tracks. At midnight it was reported that fourteen business places and a number of residences had been destroyed and the fire was still burning, although at that hour it was stated that undoubtedly should rise the flames and probably be confined to the district already doomed.

SOME SIDE LIGHTS ON REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

(By United Press.) Chicago, June 8.—There were lively conventions down the street. The contesting delegates tell to the National committee men are true. While this contest body sits and smokes, they are such things as this: Why, gentlemen, it was cowardly and dastardly. When they held their convention in Turner hall, at the Rock Gus Rummel tried to kill them. They knew he was a Roosevelt man and one of the Taft men grabbed a constable's club and hit right over the head. He was a whistler were all covered in blood. It was terrible. Here's another, by a Roosevelt man: "I challenge our opponents to whether their convention held the rear of the livery stable, at 1001, or in the room back of Jim Kelly's grocery store." Or this from J. A. Alston, a negro Florida: "Gentlemen, I tried to get into the convention at Palatka in February. I went in the entry way and stated my grievance. Postmaster whaled into me and I whaled into him and then they whaled me out on to the street. It was a cold day and so we Roosevelt men built a bonfire in the street to keep warm. Pretty soon a colored constable came out and gave me his belt to enter, but as soon as I entered they whaled me out again. They tried to take my ticket away from me, but they couldn't get it. I haven't taken my hands off of it until today, when I placed the paper in the hands of the National committee men. That must have been a lively one at Palatka, Arkansas. You know they don't allow negroes to enter that town." A contestant told the National committee men: "There were twenty-five negro delegates to the district convention, but the white folks put up signs, reading 'Keep away from here nigger,' and don't let the sun go down on you

In this town nigger." You bet the niggers didn't go to that convention. The town folks were looking for them, so they gave their proxies to the white men, who voted for Taft, and there was not a single nigger in the convention." Ormsby McHarg, Roosevelt contest leader, the man who went down south, to organize Roosevelt delegations there, carries a lead pencil, only an inch long. "I started in this campaign with that lead pencil. I've carried it 30,000 miles and I'm going to quit using it until I count the Roosevelt vote with it in the National convention," he says. "Then I'm going to tie a silk string to it."

"Everything you Roosevelt fellows have to lead," said Henry Chubb, the Florida leader. "Who ever magnus Hess is, he seems determined that the members of the National Republican convention shall know what kind of a city Chicago is. The late mail, Saturday brought envelopes to each member of the committee. These contained slips on which were printed weird pictures and the following: "Chicago, the worst city in the world. Jails full, churches empty, motto—Do or get done. Population two million. Murders 124 a year. Hung 1. The world's criminal flock to Chicago." The committee men, generally turned the slips over to Frank O. Lowden, the committeeman from Illinois.

Over 300 lawyers, it is calculated, will appear before the National Republican committee during the bearing of the contests over delegations. Some of them are excellent speakers. The most effective orator, who had appeared up to Saturday night, was Joseph E. Lee, negro of Jacksonville, Fla. He received the closest attention of the committeemen and in three passages of argument with Ormsby McHarg, the Roosevelt leader, Lee was accredited the honors, by the applause of his hearers, who by the way are not fond of McHarg.

but the damage will aggregate in many thousands.

The village owns a water works department but the man who has charge of the plant is in the Pasteur institute, together with seven other citizens of the place who were recently bitten by mad dogs and the volunteer fire fighters were unable to operate the plant in order to secure water pressure and the fire fighting apparatus of the town was useless.

The fire started about 5:30 o'clock last evening between a pool room and cigar store owned and operated by Grant Dillinger and another business block adjoining. The Dillinger pool room occupied one of two business rooms in a two-story frame structure and this building furnished excellent fuel for the flames which gained rapid headway and spread quickly to the adjoining business buildings and to residences along the west side of the main street from the corporation limits on the north to the Clover Leaf railroad right of way which extends through the center of the village. The origin of the fire has not been ascertained.

AMONG THE LOSSES.

Among the places destroyed were the blocks occupied by the Dillinger pool room and cigar store, the Bank of Continental, owned by the Edwards Brothers of Leipsic; the Farmers' Exchange Bank, the office and printing plant of the Continental News, Winnow's barber shop, the Zesch hardware store, the Allen restaurant, Leatherman's jewelry store, the Gillette grocery, the Gading restaurant, the Coleman Racket store, Young's motion picture theatre and residences of families named Hoffman and Jenkins. A number of other residences were reported to be on fire but could possibly be saved through the efforts of the bucket brigades which were organized.

Aside from the illumination furnished by the fire, the town was in total darkness, the owners of the electric plant having recently gone into bankruptcy, the plant being closed down as a result. With both light and water plans out of commission, the people of the stricken city are greatly discouraged over the situation and it is feared that much of the destroyed territory in the business district will not be rebuilt.

The stricken town is situated at the junction of the Nickel Plate, Clover Leaf, and Lima-Defiance railroads, the latter being the old C. & L. M. line which was purchased by the Ohio Electric company. On account of the closing down of the electric light plant, the Ohio Electric company has been unable to operate cars north of the town of Kalida for some time.

Recently a mad dog ran amuck in the town of Continental and before the animal was killed eight persons and six animals had been bitten. The dogs were killed and their victims, on having their wounds examined showed symptoms of the rabies and they were all sent by the commissioners of Putnam county to the Pasteur institute at Chicago. The manager of the water works plant was among the victims and when the fire broke out last night no one in the village knew how to operate the water works plant so as to provide the vastly essential water pressure. The volunteer firemen turned out with the village fire fighting apparatus but the water did not have enough pressure behind it to force it more than a few feet from the nozzles of the fire hose. The hose was abandoned and the fire fighters organized bucket brigades with which they set to work to save the southern portion of the village. In this work they were successful. The Clover Leaf railroad right of way separated the southern portion of the town from the burning district at a distance sufficient to make the work of the bucket brigades effective and at an early hour this morning it was believed this portion of the town would be saved from destruction.

GOMEZ

GIVEN A WEEK IN WHICH TO MAKE GOOD.

STATE DEPARTMENT WILL NOT TOLERATE THE PRESENT CUBAN CONDITIONS.

(By United Press.) Washington, June 8.—That Uncle Sam has given President Gomez of Cuba a week in which to "make good" on his promise to put down the negro insurrection, was the belief here today, following dispatches from Cuba. An expeditionary force of 5,000 troops is now literally resting on its arms waiting word from Washington ordering embarkation on transports now held ready, with steam up, to sail for Cuba.

The steps taken by the administration were understood here today to fix a definite time limit with which Gomez would seize the opportunity to resume control.

The curt language of the state department instructions to Minister Beaupre at Havana, carried this ultimatum, and likewise the official statement announced by the war department that no orders for movement of the troops now held ready, would be given until the marines now at Guantanamo have proved insufficient to cope with the negroes.

Meanwhile, today's cables told of increasing spread of the rebellion. Outbreaks were reported within a few miles of Havana.

RECORDS

BROKEN IN CENTRAL ASSOCIATION PRELIMINARIES AT CHICAGO.

(By United Press.) Chicago, June 8.—Two Olympic records were equalled, one beaten and an American record is said to have been broken in the central association A. A. U. Olympic trials, on Northwestern field, Evanston, Ill., today.

The track events developed the best Olympic material. Davenport, already conceded a place on the American team, romped home in the 800 metres in what was announced as a new American record, 1:54 1-5. O. T. Wilson, of Coe College, equalled the Olympic record for the 100 metres in his trial heat by stepping in 10 4-5 seconds. N. J. Patterson beat Mel Shephard's Olympic record in the 1500 metres. F. J. Lynberg performed notably in the 400 metres which he won in 48 3-5, a race that ought assure him a trip to Stockholm. Equalling the world's record, C. C. Cook grabbed the 200 metre final handily in 21 3-4 seconds.

(By United Press.) Marion, O., June 8.—Mrs. J. Lammers-Hutchinson, the first woman ever elected to the local school board, today received word that her brother, a prospector in Alaska, had been killed in a snowslide May 2, leaving a fortune of nearly one million dollars. He was a bachelor. Mrs. Hutchinson will receive a large share of the estate.

EVERY Taft Delegate Will Be Entitled to Seat

INTIMATES THE PEN IS NONE TOO GOOD FOR THEM.

SEES DESTRUCTION OF HIS OWN PARTY

AS TAFT STEAM ROLLER GOES MERRILY ON ITS WAY.

(By United Press.) Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 8.—Flatly announcing that he will not abide by the action of the Republican National committee Theodore Roosevelt tonight issued a vitriolic statement denouncing the seating of the Taft delegates from the ninth Alabama district in which he said: "A nomination obtained by the votes of delegates seated in utter defiance of justice as these two Alabama delegates have just been seated, would be worthless to the man obtaining it would be indignantly repudiated by the Republican party as a whole."

In summing up his argument Roosevelt said: "The Taft leaders speak as if they were regular Republicans. I do not concede that theft is a test of regularity."

In discussing the action of the committee, the Colonel declared: "Again and again we have sent to the penitentiary election officials for deeds morally not one whit worse than what was done by the members of the National committee who unseated the two properly elected delegates in this Ninth district of Alabama and substituted for them men who have no more right to vote in the National convention than a repeater has to vote in an election."

He made an appeal to the voters at large and charged that the Taft leaders were making a deliberate attempt to destroy the Republican party.

In view of the action taken by the National committee yesterday in unseating the two duly elected delegates in the Ninth Alabama district, and replacing them by men who have no more title to sit in the Republican convention than they have to sit in the Democratic convention I would like to make as serious an appeal as is in my power to every good citizen who regards the Republican party as an instrument for good government, which it is wickedly light to destroy."

"Alabama is entitled to twenty-four delegates in the convention. As regards several of the districts where there have been contests it is my sincere belief that the right was as much on our side as on the side of our opponents. But in these districts there was room for honest doubt, and talking the matter over with Senator Dixon we both agreed to advise the Roosevelt members of the National committee to support no contest in any district where there was room for reasonable doubt as to the right of the Roosevelt delegates to be seated. Accordingly in all but one of the Alabama districts the Roosevelt members of the National committee voted with the majority and this in spite of the fact that, as I have already said, we regard the claims of the Roosevelt men in certain of these districts as being as good as those of their opponents."

"But in the Ninth Alabama district two Roosevelt delegates have been unquestionably elected. The facts were as follows: The Republican committee of this district, composed of thirty members met to call the convention. Eighteen members were favorable to my candidacy, twelve to Mr. Taft. The Taft men conceded that this was the regular district committee and began by participating in the meeting, but as soon as it developed that the Roosevelt men were in the majority, the twelve Taft men left the meeting and called a convention of their own, leaving eighteen members a clear majority of the regular convention in which the Roosevelt delegates were named. No serious evidence was presented before the National committee to contravene these facts."

The contest against these two regularly elected Roosevelt delegates had literally no foundation whatever even of the most flimsy description. There was no more ground for unseating these delegates than there would be for example in unseating the Taft delegates from Rhode Island or in any district in any state where there is no contest whatever. Yet the National committeemen who are supporting Mr. Taft voted to unseat the two men properly elected, and to seat in the National convention two men who as I have said, literally have no more right to appear as delegates in that convention than they have to appear in the Governor Herbert S. Hadley, of Missouri, who was one of the first to induce Col. Roosevelt to enter the race against President Taft for the Republican presidential nomination. There is a general belief that in the event of his being nominated Col. Roosevelt is especially desirous of having Governor Hadley as a running mate.

Democratic National convention. They represent nothing whatever in the Republican party except the determination of certain members of the National committee, who have themselves been repudiated by the Republican party, that the majority of the party shall not be permitted to decide whom they wish to be the nominee for President. Now I wish to call the attention not only to all good Republicans but of all good citizens to just what this type of action means. As yet there is no law to govern National nominating conventions as there is to govern National elections—although in certain states the nomination of candidates is carried on under the law of those states precisely as are the elections.

"Because of this lack of Federal law, acts, which if done to influence elections would be criminal, can be perpetrated with impunity so far as National nominations are concerned. But this is a difference in legality and not in morality. Again and again we have sent to the penitentiary election officials for deeds morally not one whit worse than what was done by the members of the National committee who unseated the two properly elected delegates in this Ninth district of Alabama and substituted for them men who have no more right to vote in the National convention than a repeater has to vote at an election."

LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMP WILL DEFEND HIS TITLE AGAINST JOE RIVERS.

(By United Press.) Los Angeles, Cal., June 8.—Apparently hale and hearty, Ad Wolgast is in Los Angeles today to prepare for his championship battle with Joe Rivers, July 4.

"I am myself again now," declared Ad. "I knew it the moment I started it with O'Brien at Philadelphia. I could easily have stowed him away but Joe's wouldn't stand for it. But I know I'm right. Just let the knozers wait. Wolgast leaves Monday for a 15 days' mountain rest at Wheeler's Springs. He will begin heavy work here June 25."

He had walked from Portsmouth here trying to find work to earn money for the support of his mother. Portsmouth authorities will come after the boy.

VIRGINIA MINING TOWN THE SCENE.

FEARED FURTHER TROUBLE MAY BE OUTCOME OF THE SLAUGHTER.

(By United Press.) Norton, Va., June 8.—Reports were received here today from Dante, a mining camp in the mountains that 25 men were killed and wounded in a fight between Italian miners and mountaineers over a card game Friday night. The first reports received was that 25 were dead. Later reports, however, say that some of the men though badly wounded will recover.

Dante is in the most inaccessible section of the mountains and it is almost impossible to obtain detailed information.

Nearly every man engaged in the game was killed and a number of bystanders were shot down. Plots were brought into play when the Italians charged the mountaineers with cheating in the card game. Almost simultaneously volleys were fired by both factions and men dropped like ten pins. There was a wild stampede for the doors and many of the injured were trampled under the feet of the terror-stricken fugitives.

A number of the combatants who escaped fled to the mountains. The foreign miners are incensed and it is feared there will be further trouble following a report that mountaineers were congregating in the hills preparatory to marching upon the town to wreak vengeance upon the foreigners.

Can't Verify It.

Norton, Va., June 8.—Reports received here today that 25 men were killed and wounded in a fight between Italian miners and mountaineers in a mining camp near Dante, Va., cannot be verified, and are generally discredited here.

The original report said that a fight had taken place at Dante, but this was denied by the police of that town.

Other reports say that the fight took place at one of the mines in the mountains beyond Dante and that several were killed. According to one report a disagreement between some mountaineers and Italians, who were playing cards, took place and that a promiscuous shooting followed, some of the players and bystanders being killed.

demand will form the basis of the world-wide campaign to be waged this summer by that organization, with the assistance of allied unions in other countries, and which will be carried to the point of an international strike if necessary.Officials of the union have little hope that the investigations of the Rhine disaster made by the American and British governments will touch what they consider the real root of the present evils of the merchant marine. Although they believe it is quite likely that drastic regulations will be adopted as regards life-saving apparatus; and that some of the other features of their program will be included, they point out that both governments have entirely subordinated, if not practically ignored, the question of efficient manning. Colossal as was the Titanic disaster, it stands in a class almost by itself.
Incidents are only an occasional menace, and one that now will be greatly minimized through the subsequent voluntary changing of the routes of ocean liners. But the danger of sea travel due to inadquate manning of both officers and crews is constant. The history of navigation, it is declared, shows a far longer list of disasters traceable to inefficiency than to accidental causes."But efficient crews apparently are not wanted in the merchant marine," said my informant. "They would be too expensive. Dividends are far more important than safety.

Rome's Latest

(By Henry Wood.)

Rome correspondent of the United Press.Rome, June 8.—Rome will this month conduct its second annual experiment with the "Campi Scolastici" or Open Air Schools for the merit pupils of the public schools.Although it is admitted that the inspiration for this new phase of the public school system of Italy came from the Boy Scouts' movement, its promoters claim for it not only many original ideas, but also the distinction of its being the only experiment of its kind now being made in the world.Under the system that was put into practice last year for the first time, eighty children are selected at the close of the spring term of ways from amongst the poorer pupils of the public schools, the most studious, the best behaved and all pupils of the entire school system of Rome. These pupils are then sent on a summer "camping" and sailing trip of 40 days in the famous Alban Hills some fifteen miles out from Rome.The children, who always range from 10 to 14 years of age, are equipped as Boy Scouts, and are then divided into four parties of 20 pupils each. They march out from Rome, under the guidance of masters and assistants, with a full commissary department behind and after reaching the Alban Hills, establish four separate camps in different parts of the mountains. Ten days are spent in each camp, the four parties alternating with each other in the four separate localities.Each camp is provided with masters, two drummers, a person who oversees the cleanliness of the children as well as the sanitation of the camp; a steward who attends to the expenses of the living and the producing of rations; a postboy,
a librarian, a library of 100 volumes and a study tent for the various classes that are held daily.Aside from the study and actual work done by the boys themselves
the camps serve as an experiment station for the observation of the children, studying under various conditions; various diets and under various methods of discipline. One phase of child life in Italy to which special attention has been givenat these camps is the effect upon the young students of the wines of the country which are drunk in attention of the children are accustomed from infancy. It has been definitely established that the children, when deprived of wine at the camps,
make not only much better progress in their studies, but, withstand much better the fatigue of the marches and other physical exercises that are always a part of the camp life. The data secured on this one subject alone is already being made the basis of a crusade in Italy to keep the children from being given wine with their meals.Last year, when the first of the Scholastic camps was held, Queen Elena motored out one day and dropped in unexpectedly and unannounced upon the camps. The boys were allowed to give her a rousing cheer and then under the military discipline of the camp returned instantly to their studies. This year a repetition of her visit and possibly a visit from the king himself is being looked forward to with great pleasure.

ACTS AS MASCOT FOR BAND
AND WINS A NEW SUIT OF CLOTHES.An interesting feature of the big
U. C. T. parade Saturday afternoon was the appearance of little Tom Murray, son of a south side blacksmith, who acted as advance guard for the Springfield Cadet band. The little fellow was found on the street
by the band boys and they adopted him for the afternoon. With apackage of pop-corn in one hand and a sack of peanuts in the other he walked ahead of the band only when that organization had to appear in front of the reviewing stand. Then Tom hurried up to the Norval hotel and awaited the arrival of the musical organization.A member of the band started a popular subscription for Tom before the crowds left the Norval, with the results that enough was secured to tog him out in a new suit of clothes.

WHY HE REFUSED.

An ordinance prohibiting peddlers and cripples disposing of their wares on the public square was re-sponsible for Mayor Shook's real to grant William Graft a permission to place his post card on the square. The mayor has been booted considerably of late by transients who apply for a temporary permission to place a stand on the square, such permission is forbidden by city ordinance.

found it difficult, indeed, to recognize the slender muscular and perfectly for some literary work I found a re-

the treatment he discovered and while anyone must admit that it is a highly
scientific and logical method, undoubt-

yet it is so simple that even a child
can understand it and obtain most sat-already written Dr. Turner of their success in losing 20 to 30 pounds of fat by his recently discovered method of drugless weight reduction. Not a single one of them failed to obtain highly satisfactory results. Surely, in view of all these proven facts, no out-person need any longer feel that he or she must remain fat. Lack of space prevents a full description of the entire method here, but Dr. Turner has described it in a handsomely bound and extremely interesting little booklet entitled, "How I Reduced My Weight 100 Pounds," and by special arrangement with the doctor we are able to announce that these valuablefeel twenty years younger to be rid of all the fat that had formed inside and outside of my body. After discontinuing the treatment and keeping careful record of my weight for more than 2 months I was delighted to find that reduction was permanent, nor has the fat shown the slightest tendency to return since then.Dr. Turner then went on to explain the treatment he discovered and while

anyone must admit that it is a highly
scientific and logical method, undoubtedly effective to a wonderful degree,
yet it is so simple that even a child
can understand it and obtain most satisfactory results. It requires the use of no medicines, strenuous exercise, starvation diet, apparatus, sweating or anything that would possibly harm even an invalid. Not comment with reducing his own weight, Dr. Turner has several friends who method Dr. Turner wrote: "I have lost

some" to keep up with the pace that was set by Lima this summer.

The Street Parade.

The street parade was all that was expected and it was enjoyed by the spectators, especially pleasing being the excellent music that was furnished by the visiting bands.
The line of march was not long enough to be too tiresome, and yet afforded ample space for the marching delegations to be seen and to accommodate the thousands who have the route to do the seeing.

The formation of the parade and the execution of the procession under the leadership of Grand Marshal Henry Deisel and his aides, were up to the highest standard,
the program being carried through without a break. The formation of the procession as it passed the reviewing stand on the public square was as follows:

Members of police department,
Lima city band,
Grand Marshal and aides,
Past grand councillors of C. C. T. mounted.

Officers of grand council and escorts in automobiles.
Fourth Regiment band of Columbus.

Members of Columbus Council
No. 1 marching.
Members of Columbus council
baseball team.

The Lower band, of Toledo.
Members of Toledo Council.
Wellbrook band of Dayton and members of Dayton council.
Seventh Regiment band, of Zanesville, and Zanesville council.
Hawkins Cadet band, of Springfield, and Champion City council.
Maus band of Lima.

Urbana council.
K. of P. band, of Findlay and Findlay council.
Bellefontaine band and members of the "Baby" council of the state, Bellefontaine No. 568.
Members of Lima council, 135
members in line and in uniform.

The Prizes Awarded.
After the parade yesterday afternoon, Bandmaster John C. Weber, of Cincinnati, who officiated as adjudicator of the band contests of Saturday morning, announced that he had decided to award first prize to the Lower band of Toledo, and second money to the Seventh Regiment band of Zanesville. There was much disappointment over the failure of the Fourth Regiment band of Columbus failing to win
one of the prizes. Prof. Prof. Weber stated that the playing was of a high standard, but that the Zaneville organization excelled in appearance, and marching, while equalling the Columbus band on other points. The adjudicators were made with appearance, marching, intonation, shading and precision as the points considered.

The other prize awards were as stated in the table at the head of this article. Lima excelled all other councils in the number of men in line and many councils as to appearance, being neatly uniformed in white coats and white sailor hats, with blue bands, but they did not complete for any of the prizes, being at home.

GORDON

PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO CHARGE OF HORSE STEALING

CLAIMS HE SECURED POSSES-SION OF HOOKER'S HORSE
THROUGH A TRADE.

Bruce Gordon, charged with horse stealing, entered a plea of not guilty
when formally arraigned Saturday afternoon in Mayor Shook's court and was bound over to the grand jury. Upon his failure to give bond, he was committed to the county jail.

Gordon was apprehended at Winchester, Indiana, where he is believed to have disposed of a horse and rig belonging to Joe Hooker, a Lima liverman. Devective I. M. Armstrong accompanied him back to this city, Saturday afternoon. Gordon strongly denied the charge, claiming that he had gained possession of the stolen horses through a trade. Another horse owned by John Riddle, living near this city, was also traded by the prisoner.

At the last parliamentary elec-

an active part electioneering for candidates. This is the first time women have been allowed to take it possible for them to do so. The law was passed in the face of extraordinary efforts put forth by the reactionaries to defeat it.

1840 and who lived in this city between 35 and forty years, died at her late home in Jackson township at 5 o'clock Friday evening. She had been ill only two weeks and her fatal ailment was the result of an accident which befel her two weeks ago. She stepped on a sharp

What a Strenuous Week Columbus Residents Had

SIDNEY MAN WOULD SWAP CHANCE IN HEREFTER FOR HOTEL.

SOCIALISTS ACTIVE AS OTHER HUCANS

BEGIN SUMMER CAMPAIGN AND GET READY FOR FALL ELECTIONS.

By G.H. Gilson.

Columbus, June 8.—I'd rather have a hotel in this 'ere man's town than all three of your daily newspapers put together." These were the words of Col. C. P. Smith of Sidney, who was approached by your correspondent late Thursday night just as he was leaving the Neillhouse. The Colonel he it known has had experience both as a newspaper and hotel man. He was mad clear through. In fact that is hardly expressing it. He had been to all the leading hotels in the city and at each was informed that there was not a room left. What was he to do? Well—he took him over to a second floor where he got a very comfortable room for fifty cents, had expected to pay about $3. Consequently we figure the Colonel owes us $2.50.

But it is a fact this has been a strenuous week in Columbus. First came the delegates to the G. O. P. convention, and the bunch of lobbyists that invariably follows the gang. They had booked up all the best reservations at the leading hotels many weeks in advance. Many traveling men were turned away from their usual haunts but there were a heap of vacant rooms in good second class hotels.

Then also there have been something like a half dozen secret societies holding conventions here during the week. But the biggest of them and practically the only one to attract attention was the gathering of the Mystic Order of Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm (third degree or better Masons.) More than three thousand were here. Over 2,000 took part in the big parade. But all found beds and as for "the eat," there was enough left over to well take care of the big multitude of Eagles that will arrive early next week. The city is already gaily dressed in flags and bunting for the occasion. Large delegations are expected from several Aeries in Northwestern Ohio and word has already gone abroad to the effect that some of these chaps have their eyes on prizes which have been thrown into the ring.

Want More Money.

While it is practically assured that Columbus will be treated to a six weeks vaudeville performance by the Rev. Billy Sunday, early next year, opposition to the celebrated evangelist which was small at first, the Rev. Dr. Washington Gladden being the only person with sufficient backbone to take the initiative, has assumed considerable proportions. Dr. Gladden and others only oppose Sunday because they do not approve of his methods, but many have become disgusted because of the great demand for money in advance. Sunday when first asked to visit Columbus, distinctly stated that he would not consider the proposition until a guarantee fund of $12,000 was raised. In order exactly double this amount was subscribed. It is now said an appeal being made for still more money and this has served to arouse indignation in several quarters, that were previously friendly to Sunday and his troupe of performers.

Governor Harmon Happy.

Governor Harmon was probably the happiest man at the state house Thursday. All day long the executive chamber was thronged with a crowd of admirers that called to extend congratulations over his splendid victory at the Toledo convention. He was on hand in his office early in the day and arrived puffing a big black cigar. "You laid it on pretty thick," Harmon said to George S. Long, his private secretary, who presided at the convention and made his keynote speech on the subject of the new administration.

"But not too thick," responded Long.

Case Dismissed.

After spending much time in looking over the case and running up decisions quoted, the supreme court yesterday dismissed the case of The Turnbow Wagon Company against Turnbow.

Bond Issue is Denied.

The application of the Columbus, Kenton and Toledo Traction Company filed some time ago with the Public Service Commission, was this week turned down. The management of the road asked that it be allowed to increase its capital stock $50,000 and sell $1,350,000 bonds. When any concern comes before the commission nowadays with anything like a million dollar bond issue project, the members open their eyes and commence to ask questions. The officials of the company informed the commission that the bond issue was necessary, as it was desired to extend their line south from Findlay, through Kenton to Richmond, there to connect with the C. & M. giving entrance into Columbus. And the commission refused the request but if it gave any reason for doing so it was not made public.

Socialists Are Active.

Columbus Socialists will tomorrow (Sunday) commence a series of summer propaganda meetings and entertainments, for elaborate arrangements have been made. These will be held in the different parks. Tomorrow there will be special music and addresses by local speakers. In order to increase enthusiasm in the meetings it has been decided to distribute 500 copies of the "Marseillaise" with music to be sung at the meetings. During the summer it is proposed to have many prominent speakers here.

At the last regular business session it was decided to limit the central committee to one member from each ward. The following resolution was adopted—"The Socialist party of Columbus stands for political action and believes that all forms of industrial organization should be left to the workmen themselves. And the Socialist party stands for industrial unionism, but does not indorse any particular organization."

Simple Remembrance Dead King.

Among those in attendance at the Republican National convention who enjoys a large acquaintance, was former State Senator W. J. Temple, of Van Wert. Temple was not a regular accredited delegate but no sooner was his presence known than he was made "an acting secretary," which means that he had nothing to do but occupy a front seat on the platform.

Friends of Temple had all sorts of fun with him, reminding him of the fact that he was a "dead ringer" for the lamented King Edward of England. As a matter of fact this is true. He has the identical beard, is of practically the same stature and carries himself with the same grace and dignity that the king did after he had discarded the gaudies and dissipation of which he was a component as Prince of Wales.

I had a nice long chat with Mr. Temple in the rotunda of the First Presbyterian Church? He said he was a farmer but that as a side line he operated a stone quarry near Van Wert. He also said that he was primarily a Foraker man but that as his favorite was not figuring in the contest on at that time he was doing all he could in the interest of Pres. Taft. Be that as it may, Mr. Temple has a host of good local friends in Columbus and wherever he went he was accompanied by a very few of them.

When To Close Polls.

The outcome of a friendly suit, which has been started in this city to determine the legal time of closing polls at election time will be of state wide interest. This is to determine whether voting must cease at 3:30 or 6:00 p. m., in cities. Columbus is soon to have a special bond issue election and in his proclamation Mayor Karb announced that the polls would be open from 5:30 a. m. to 6 p. m. The board of election has closed them at 5:30, holding this is closing hours in cities where registration systems were maintained although the statute does not embody such a clause. Hence the suit, but it is a friendly one as stated above and only brought to settle a much mooted question.

Lid Is Not Off.

'Tis a vile slander of Columbus that story sent out to the effect that the lid, Sunday closing lid, which has not only been open for several months, but has been kept open, is off and that this is now an open town. It is true that gangs of carpenters and joiners have been at work for several weeks building partitions and queer looking screens in the rear of many of the saloons, but the proprietor of one of the most prominent cafes in the city told me that he had plenty of room and was simply arranging for a "stock room" back there. He said that as it may, if one succeeds in getting into any of Columbus' drink emporiums on a Sunday, he is most thoroughly known as a week day patron and perfectly "safe." There is not a Sunday but that from three to four saloon keepers are "pulled" by the police charged with violating the law. Most of them plead guilty. A majority of the others are found so by the police court judge, promptly pay their fine and rush back to their place of business.

Former Lima Man Hurt.

Thomas Swartz, aged 40, who recently came here from Lima, where he was employed by a telephone company, to accept a position with the Citizens Telephone Company, suffered injuries to his back, Thursday which are expected to prove fatal. He fell from a pole upon which he was working broke with his weight. He is unmarried but has a mother with whom he lived in Lima, and who accompanied him to this city.

Pen Men For Lima.

If present plans do not miscarry, a gang of penitentiary convicts may soon be at work on the roads adjacent to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Lima. The board of administration has already ordered 150 taken to Carroll County Monday, to work on a strip of road being built jointly by the county and state. Tents have been provided and a camp will be pitched at the scene of operations. Another squad is to be sent to Stark County under similar conditions and it is probable that Lima will receive the next contingent. This comes about through the actual replenishment of convict labor in the Pen which sent more than 500 men into the already over crowded idle house. The convict labor system was allowed to continue in force in the institution many months after it had been abolished by state statute and it will be remembered that it was a convict sent up from Lima who first called the attention of the governor and board of administration to the fact that it was still in existence (?) by going on a strike and refusing to work in the bolt factory conducted by one of the contracting firms. He induced fellow prisoners to join him. They were removed to a quarry to work after several days in solitary confinement had failed to fetch them willingly back into the bolt factory. But the climax came when nearly three hundred prisoners struck one fine about two weeks ago. Officials then began to realize that the contract system was still in vogue, got busy and the result is, all of the contractors have removed their machinery, most of the prisoners even refusing to aid in the work.

At The Hotels.

Among those from northwestern Ohio registering at the hotels exclusive of delegates to the Republican convention, during the week have been the following:

At the Neill—W. H. Jordan, of Sidney; Frank Phillips of Lima, J. P. Cross of Findlay, Wessels H. Shaw of Greenville, Hampton Smith of Ottawa, Mrs. R. E. Burns of Kenton. At the Southern—C. P. Hayes of Lima, John K. Burt of Lima, B. F. Hazleton of Wapakoneta. At the Virginia—C. P. Lewis of Kenton, W. B. Parker, of Defiance, A. G. Baker of Celina. At the Claittenden—M. W. Smith of Lima, Mrs. F. W. Ford and daughter of Lima, K. P. Smith of Van Wert.

There will be that many more completed this summer. "That increases valuation." Think it over.

Don't Forget

You will never be able to buy lots in Lincoln Park Addition again at these prices.

The most favorable opportunity of your life to secure a home site on such easy terms and at these prices, $250.00 to $600.00.

All we have told you is facts. Go and see for yourself, or call us and we will take you out.

Today is The Day.

What Does This All Mean?

What does the selling of over $20,000.00 worth of lots to more than sixty people mean? It means the doubling of values. As population doubles values more than double.

It also means that dollars must double when invested in Lincoln Park Addition Real Estate.

Location

The best location in East Lima. Out of the smoke and dirt, close to Lincoln Park, plenty of shade, nice large lots, a beautiful place to build a home.

We want to show you these lots before you buy.

What We Predicted

A few months ago we predicted 50 buyers before May 1st, 1912. Today more than 60 people have bought property in Lincoln Park Addition.

What We Have Done

We have laid all cement sidewalks, graded all streets, put in sewers, city water mains, etc. We have left nothing undone to make it as convenient as any place in the city.

Street Cars

Pass the property. You are only 6 minutes ride from the Public Square. Three blocks from the public schools. You are away from all noise and humdrum of the city, alongside of one of Lima's beautiful parks, and in the most beautiful residence districts in the City of Lima.

Men and Matters

George H. Melly, who returned home after a winter and early spring trip, combining business and pleasure, returned home with a hale and hearty, after several months absence. Most of the time during his stay in the southland was spent at Fitzgerald, Georgia, and vicinity.

W. H. Allen, who came to Lima several weeks ago as secretary of the Lima Mausoleum Company, has resigned that office and has been succeeded by J. R. Nauss, who has also been connected with the company for some time. Mr. Allen expects to take up mausoleum work in new territory. His successor here is well informed and thoroughly capable and efficient in the line.

Clinton E. Higgy, who is now engaged in the dry goods business on the west side of the public square in this city, was serenaded yesterday by the Fourth Regiment band, of Columbus, and was visited by many of the members of Columbus Council No. 1. Mr. Higgy was formerly a citizen of Columbus and is a member of Columbus Council.

The fact that many new homes are being erected in Lima this summer is shown by the fact that Water Works Superintendent Lytle has installed service connections for 238 new buildings since spring opened.

(By L. N. Prince.)

With six breezy innings rattled by boards, and both teams peppering away at an even clip, Mr. Rube Munk, the taciturn young ballplayer, grew weary and went to the mound. Raymond Ryan's Chillicothe Babes alive to their opportunity blazed their way to the fore when the fragments from the fifth session had been stored away in six juicy and significant Ryan's warning session and with a few more outbursts went to the mound. Ryan's Babes, who had taken the count, 5 to 4, at nine solid frames comprised game of Father Chadwick's pre-emption, Wrigley's men were victimized and emerged from the game the unpopular terminus of a 10-5 verdict, incidentally it making their third straight loss to the Garps of Eden pets.

After each contender had counted a point in the introductory chapter, the warring factions skinned Ryan's men in the first, winning 4 to 1. At this juncture Harry Daubert's difficult error permitted another to filter through. The beginning of the sixth was a duplication. Ryan came clean with another error by direct slugging. Then with a run to the rear, Wrigley's blazed away and evened up matters with screaming hits to left and right. Never daunted, those venalists mounted to their guns in the seventh and flitted around the bases with the speed of frightened rats. When Rudy and his team-mates finally came to terra firma, a series of counts had rattled upward and the bean pan was oiled in irrefragable directions.

After the seventh, the struggle lapsed into uninteresting by-play and is continued only by a feeble effort of the Beans in the eighth when they succeeded in pulling a couple more runs into harbor. Ryan departed in silence snorting in contempt at the miserable exhibition staged by the Home Guard. An injury to Helme Bush, of Chillicothe, put the Beans on a back street. Helme was twisting and turning in the first, winning a couple of swatbats and then performing a duo of solid hits and a run, when a return ball caught him on the propelling digit of his right paw, and retired him from the fray. The danger signal was raised, and Wrigley unblinking to the center of the diamond. Rudy mounted to the turret and came through swimmingly for a couple of innings. Wrigley's miscue in the eighth undermined the abutment, and the defense work, however, and the bean pan was oiled one down. Kelly poked a hole through second with his whistled hit. McCall drew his third corn.

The afternoon and Corwin hit Wrigley, who fumbled momentarily, but long enough for the second to slide into first in safety. Kelly registered a Bell at the third. The 200 base-balls, somewhat by causing a toll to Daubert who pegged perfectly and nailed the visiting shortstop in the first. The out should have been a 2, with no scores. At this point Rudy wavered and precipitated from his seat of mastery. This Ryan was walked in rapid succession, Ryan's qualifications for the final forcing Chicago McGraynor into port with run No. 2, of the round. Then with the sacks congested to their uttermost capacity, Muck McGraynor who had pegged quietly away all afternoon, came to earth rather emphatically by slapping a timely double to deep center, scoring Corwin and Bell. Not to be outdistanced, Ordie Hammond duplicated their feat in the same direction and McGraynor and his boss pulled in without trouble. Manier, coming up for the second time during the inning, terminated festivities by flying to Daubert.

Kelley's single, McCall's walk and Corwin's well directed belt scored the first run for the Babes. McGraynor singled in the fifth, moved around on a sacrifice hit and passed ball and scored on Daubert's boot. In the sixth, Bell doubled and scored on Kelly's poke. Run No. 10 was earned in the eighth, by a walk and Bell's second double of the fracas.

Stogies limbered up like world-beaters. Chic Long drew a complimentary, went to third on Hobbs' single and scored on Nesser's lousy double to right-center. Neither Daubert nor Clarke could move the two runners around and only one run was the result. A streak of brilliant base running and crashing bluffs added a couple in the sixth. Harry Daubert paved the way with a solid shot to center. Clarke flew to right, but Francisco rode Daubert of a triple to deep left. Frenchy Friend came through with a long sacrifice fly to right and Nick pulled up at home. Rudy Munk screamed another whooping triple to right-center, but Long left him marooned by flying to left.

Francisco walked in the eighth and was promptly forced by Friend on an attempted sacrifice. Munk shot his second hit to center and both runners came around when Wrigley punched a rustling double to the middle. Daubert doubled in the ninth and Nick walked, but outs were interspersed. Friend couldn't bring 'em around with the needed pinch hit. Thus, the longest struggle of the season terminated with Wrigley's men just five runs behind.

"RUBE" MARQUARD

SMASHED

WERE THREE WORLD'S ATHLETIC TIC RECORDS IN TRY-OUTS.

(By United Press.)

Stadium, Soldiers' Field, Cambridge, Mass., June 8.—Three world's athletic records were smashed amid the enthusiasm of more than 30,000 spectators in the Olympic tryouts here this afternoon.

Abel Kiviat, New York Irish-American athletic club, covering 1,500 meters in 3 minutes 55 4-5 seconds lowered the world's record, set by himself, by one second. Marc S. Wright, Dartmouth, in the pole vault, did 13 feet, 2 1-4 inches, beating the record set by Gardner Yale, by 2 1-4 inches. William J. Kramer, Long Island Athletic club, lowered the 10,000 meters record by 19 1-5 seconds, when he covered the distance in 31 minutes, 45 3-5 seconds.

NOTES.

Kelley attempted a larceny of home in the third, but Munk's quick throw to Francisco caught him by an eye-lash.

Daubert's stop and perfect throw of Bell's great bid for a hit in the fourth inning was a feature. The Birmingham lad hit the ball at a mile-a-minute clip through the pitcher's box. Daubert was off at the crack of the bat and speared the grounder. Then without stopping, he charged quickly to Nesser, getting Bell by a step.

Bush fanned the first two men to face him in the first. He then proceeded to yield a couple of bingles and a free ticket. Following the first run, a thrown ball struck him on the index finger and split the member. He retired from the game.

McGraynor had his in-shoot working to perfection. At that his footers were no enigma for the local sluggers who hit him for eleven solid bingles, good for eighteen bases. Five runs were all that his delivery netted.

The game was the longest of the season, it requiring two hours and fifteen minutes to clinch things.

Munk has established a reputation for doing the Borico man's stunt in this league. Yesterday in the eight innings he officiated, he walked eight men, averaging one per inning. In the seventh, three paraded.

Hobbs, Nesser, Daubert and Munk were each there for a couple of blows. The Home Guard hit cleanly but their hits were not forthcoming at opportune times.

The old error bug cropped out at critical points. Daubert erred a couple of times while Munk, Long and Wrigley each smilled one.

Nick Francisco came near going into the straws, as Ty Cobb, several times during the fracas. A couple of bugs seated back of the plate panicked the plucky little backstop momentarily, at times applying side epiphones to him. Black and menacing looks came in return, but Nick wisely refrained from duplicating the best of their immortal turn.

Francisco had a busy field day with twelve chances. He spilled many an error and caught one of the best games seen on the local lot for many moons. His triple in the sixth scored the second run of the game.

SQUAD AT PARK

SATURDAY

There is joy in the Stogies ranks, for Harry Schanze, prodigal, has returned to the fold, penitent and ready and willing to pitch in and do his derudest toward extricating the Stogies from the slough into which they have plunged. Following a long talk with President Wright, yesterday, the Chicago southpaw, who yesterday packed together his toggery and prepared to leave for the Windy City upon Manager Wrigley's refusal to increase his salary, compromised and agreed to return to the team.

Schanze was out in uniform, as usual, Saturday afternoon and moved about the grounds enthused with that old pepperine. Schanze is to be Manager Wrigley's presentation at Marion, today.

All Sorts

(By Lloyd N. Prince.)

With a team shot to pieces by injury and desertion and plucked the slough of despond by continued hard luck, Manager Zeke Wrigley, of the local baseball club, is confronted by one of the hardest propositions ever facing a minor league manager—that of what to do. Every effort has been exerted; every method in baseball ethics employed; combination attempted, but without result. Today the team is in abominable condition. Hope is waning in the breasts of loyal fans.

Wrigley is admittedly up against it. With a team hardly fit to cope with the lowly infants from the Garden of Eden, the doughty Irishman has plunged into his work with a conscientiousness and determination that is deserving of praise. Game after game has been shuffled pass the boards; effort after effort has been made to plug the weak spots, shake-ups have been tried, but the same old results confront the local leader—absolute failure. Players are not to be obtained for less than small fortunes. Practically every dependable baseballian in the country has a string attached to him and efforts to land a few stars to bolster up the weak spots have been futile.

Harry Schanze's indefinite suspension following his announcement that he could not work for the local club longer at the salary he was receiving robbed the aggregation of what little starch there remained. Jimmy Burke's injury, a scorcher, pieces pitching staff and a patched outfield have all contributed to the ignominious plunge into the pit of dismal failure and things generally are not at all encouraging.

A decisive upheaval is expected in the ranks of the Stogies within the next week. The team, sadly crippled, leaves today for Marion where a series of four games are to be played. One week from today the game returns for a long stretch of home games. The run grows rougher daily; the chain has yawned and grown wider and becomes more unbridgeable as game after game is lost to the foe; and the confidence and interest of fans has ebbed to the lowest possible degree. A grand shake-up is brewing.

Over in Marion, an umpire's life is no longer a never-terminating need of reason. Umpire O'Brien met his Waterloo in Dixonsville Thursday, when he was mobbed, chased to the club house and arrested all in one afternoon. Occasionally they do things over in Fred Odwell's lair and they do things well. His umps who have been quite inimical to the success of the league by his high-handed methods of running the game, displeased a handful of Marion's bugs by chasing Manager Odwell to the bench. They went after his umps' goat and they got the hoped-for goat to a finish. In his excitement, O'Brien took a punch at Fred Kraber, sport editor of the Marion Star. Freddy grew suddenly pensive. He appeared in mayor's court and preferred charges against the arbitrator. For his part in the affair, Odwell drew a three days' suspension.

O'Brien has given universal dissatisfaction throughout the circuit, but it remained for Marion fans to give vent to their feelings and cap the climax by charging upon the field and pursuing his umps in unceremonious fight to the club house.

Portsmouth Cobs lost prestige in the Ohio State League the last week and their position on the top pinnacle of the heap was usurped by Barry McCormick's marauding Mansfield Tigers who are now several games to the good. Portsmouth's invasion of hostile country marked the downfall. On their own grounds they were well-nigh unbeatable but a visit to the Tigers' lair proved rather disastrous.

With McCormick's athletics spiking the end at the top of the heap, the Cobs are holding on to second place like grim death while Newark and Marion are closely healing them. Chillicothe and Lima are hopelessly down in the race, though not too far gone to land in a respectable position. All clubs have been gradually fortified since the opening of the season and as predicted, the race has split up into three sections. At the local park, Pete Childs' hirelings put forth a much better game than the lads from the Richland County metropolis. Evidently, Barry McCormick has injected a new spirit into his crew for the way they have been going has been a caution. Though shunted into second place by putting up a stiff fight and with a series of lousy games ahead should regain their position with ease.

Judges of the Chicago municipal court must force baseball and other summer amusements and pay more attention to business. Chief Justice Harry Olson, in a confidential letter told the judges that he was aware of their "hooky playing" and that they must hold court daily at 4:30 in the afternoon with the exception of Saturday.

Fifty thousand dollars has been offered to Lightweight Champion Ad Wolgast if he will consent to meet five lightweights to be picked by Manager William Gibson, of the Garden Athletic club at Madison Square Garden, New York. Wolgast is now on his way to the Pacific coast to begin training for his bout with Joe Rivers on July 4th, and has no definite answer to the offer.

Writers opine that the Reds have gone to baseball smithereens. Hank O'Day's silver horse shoe no longer

Cubs and Pirates are rapidly heeling them and 'twould not be surprising to see Charles Murphy's boys shakeup is said to be incubating, which will consummate in a deal with the Pittsburgh Pirates. The deal would mean the strengthening of both teams.

Rube Marquard, king of the south paws, continued his reckless race through the National League, this last week, mowing down more unfortunate aggregations of baseballians who chanced across his path. Richard is the "Worshipful Sir" over in Gotham, these days, and the natives hallow the ground upon which he treads. Rube is the career of a star—just so long as he is delivering the goods, but let the Rube tumble and his deeds will be forgotten. Such a prognostication is hardly at all probable, however, since this youngster has just started on the journey toward the zenith of his career, and he is due for a dozen years of star baseball.

CITIZENS

OF THE EAST SIDE ARE GIVEN A NEW PARK TO ENJOY.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE AT THE WATER WORKS STATION BY SUPT. LYTLE.

As a result of the efforts of Superintendent S. A. Lytle, of the city water works department, the citizens of the east side have a new park which they may enjoy as a shady and inviting retreat during the summer season.

Superintendent Lytle has erected a new iron pipe fence which tags in a considerable portion of the plot of ground adjoining the main pumping station, has had the weeds cut down and the lawn cleaned and beautified. Much of the territory now enclosed by the new fence was heretofore unused and was nothing more to the city than a patch of weeds, but which now presents the appearance of a modern park. The pipe fence has been connected up with a water line and has taps at frequent points around the grounds where hose may be attached and the water used for sprinkling purposes.

The improvements made are very creditable and have served to further add to the beauty and attractiveness of this portion of the city.

CLARENCE GARRISON IS CHARGED WITH ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

Drunk and disorderly, May Schaefer, 35, was arrested in front of the Hoffman House at Wayne and Main streets early Saturday evening. The woman was charged with creating a disturbance. Mr. Schaefer was placed in the woman's apartments at the city prison where she will be confined until she sobers up.

Charging her young husband with brutally slapping her, Mrs. May Garrison appeared at the central station last night and preferred charges against Clarence Garrison, 22, a driver. Mrs. Garrison was accompanied by a friend who confirmed her story of the assault.

Garrison was later arrested and taken to the central station. The row, it seems, resulted from a family quarrel. Garrison was released upon $25.00 bond. Their troubles will be thrashed out in mayor's court, Monday morning. The Garrisons board at the Rose Thomas home at Wayne street and Central avenue.

Mrs. Margaret Reginald, who has been a guest at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. H. Moore, of north Elizabeth street, returned to her home in Hamilton, Monday.

BITTER

Denunciation of Committee By Mr Roosevelt

COMMITTEE HAS ADDED 72 MORE NAMES TO TEMPORARY ROLL.

BIGGEST FIGHT IS EXPECTED MONDAY WHEN CALIFORNIA DISTRICT CONTEST IS TO BE CONSIDERED.

(By United Press.)

Coliseum, Chicago, June 8.—When the Republican National committee adjourned at 6 o'clock tonight until next Monday it absolutely demonstrated that it would seat every single Taft delegate against whom a contest had been filed with the exception of Washington State. And even then there were a number of members of the committee who insisted that, unless the Roosevelt delegates from that state could show an absolutely perfect case, they would be stricken out with the rest.

Today's session was uneventful, and unlike other days, was not marked by any wrangles of its members.

Taft won in both Florida and Georgia, the former were disposed of at the morning session in a hurry, even the Roosevelt members of the committee frankly conceding that there was little merit in the contests that were engineered by Ormsby McHugh.

But the Georgia contests presented an entirely unique situation. There had been no protest of consequence raised against the election of delegates at large and the district delegates at the conventions which instructed them all for Taft. But later the Roosevelt organization in Georgia organized a contest. The Roosevelt men claimed that the Georgia state law provided that no elections of any character were legal until after the preparation of the 1911 registration list. This list was not completed until after April 1st, and the state convention as well as the district conventions, were held in February. The Roosevelt contestants, through Dean E. Ryman, an Atlanta lawyer, insisted that this made the Taft controlled conventions absolutely illegal.

"To recognize the standing of these so-called delegates," declared Ryman, "is to practically seat delegates here and now by arbitrary fiat, not only without regard to the Georgia constitution, but to the Georgia law, but in open flagrant and complete disregard of its inhabitants."

In answering this H. L. Johnson, one of the delegates at large from Georgia, and a negro, electrified the committee by denouncing the Georgia law which he said, was enacted only to disfranchise the negro. He appealed to the committee not to recognize the Georgia law.

"Would you force the black men of Georgia," he said, "to ratify the damnation of the robbery of their franchise? This is Hoke Smith's law. He it on the statute, to rob the negro of his right as a citizen. This law was and is intended to keep the Republican party out of office."

The entire Georgia contests were disposed of by a viva voce vote no attempt being made by the Roosevelt forces to demand it. They declared that the steam roller was working over time and Frank B. Kellogg, who in the absence of Senator Borah was in charge of the Roosevelt members of the committee, returned to his hotel nearly two hours before the committee finally adjourned.

The biggest fight of the committee will come early on Monday. The committee will then take up the contest in the Fourth California district. In connection with it the legality of the entire congressional district delegation will be questioned. The Taft followers are insisting tonight that in California and in other direct primary states, such as South Dakota and Oregon, the delegates were elected at large and not by districts and that this was illegal. If the Taft contestants are seated from this district, better denunciation of the committee's action is expected from the Roosevelt men.

In fact some of the Roosevelt members of the committee were privately declaring tonight that the committee works the "steam roller" here it will bring the issue to a direct head.

IN THE REALM OF BOOKS

STORY OF THE TITANIC.

The first book by one of the passengers of the ill-fated "Titanic," giving a well considered and authentic account of the whole disaster, has been written by Lawrence Beesley and will be published by Houghton Mifflin Co. on June 29th, with illustrations from photographs. In the first chapter Mr. Beesley gives a short history of the "Titanic" and then tells of the voyage from Southampton until the night of the collision. He gives his personal remembrance of what happened after the collision and of the rescue by the "Carpathia", and then follows the whole story as reconstructed from the many different accounts. He discusses the responsibility, life-saving devices, future arrangements, and the psychology of the disaster—the way the crowd encountered fear, the general effect on the survivors after the rescue. Mr. Beesley's many qualifications should make this book one of the permanent records of the great disaster.

"Sally Salt."

Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, whose new novel, Sally Salt, has been universally accepted as one of the finest studies of a high-minded woman which has been written in many years, is an avowed champion of the American woman. "I mean," she said in an interview recently, "the real American woman of the Sally Salt type. I have no patience at all with those so-called American women who are ashamed of their own country, and who, after living in the European capitals for a time, come home so filled with affections of little consequence. Sally Salt is my ideal of what the American woman should be—bright, cheerful, altruistic, with a mind of her own and the faculty of doing things."

"THE RECORDING ANGEL."

Most writers at one time or another seek to explain the meaning of the word "love" according to their varying beliefs. Corra Harris whose insight into human nature has attracted widespread attention since she came before the world with "The Circuit Rider's Wife" and "Eve's Second Husband" has a good deal to say about this subject in her latest book, "The Recording Angel" just published by Doubleday, Page & Co. In one place she says:

"When some men fall in love they discard civilization. They are of no service to the nation, their instincts belong merely to the race. But a peculiar kind of woman is required to inspire this ardent reversion to type. You will know them by this—their lovers never intimate love secrets to them, never sing troubadour songs, never tell their passions, never confess their sins to them, as men do when they are courting mere virgins that are always most easily reached through their cradle-rocking instinct."

THE JUST AND THE UNJUST.

When Vaughan Kester wrote "The Prodigal Judge," one of the best and strongest pieces of fiction for many years, it was promised by his publishers, the Bobbs-Merrill Company, that even then Mr. Kester was at work on a still greater novel. It is hard to conceive how a better one could be written, but the publishers have fulfilled their part.

NAUGHTON PICKS JACK JOHNSON AS WINNER IN FIGHT WITH JIM FLYNN

By W. W. Naughton.
San Francisco, June 9.—"Do you know what I consider the greatest argument against Jim Flynn's chances of whipping Jack Johnson?" asked a San Francisco sportsman who has no aversion to being considered an oracle.

Answering his own question the sportsman said:

"It is the fact that Flynn is nearly as old as Johnson. Johnson is thirty-four; Flynn will be thirty-three next December. Johnson, according to the record has been in the ring for eleven years, and Flynn has been fighting eleven years. It is not therefore a case of a promising young husky and a passe companion. It is ridiculous to suppose that Johnson's fighting ability is beginning to wane and that Flynn is coming along like a house afire. The men are so close together in years that if Father Time is laying a heavy hand on one of them he hasn't far to reach to the other."

There is logic in this. What is more, it suggests another line of thought, namely, how long will Johnson remain champion even if he defends his title successfully against Flynn?

Jack says he is going to retire next September. Well, he may and then again he may not. Very few champions have been proof against the temptation to get back into harness when big money is hung in the balance and it may be that Johnson will be induced to try again after he has renounced the ring and its vanities.

If he retires and stays retired we must get a champion from some where, of course. But if he keeps right along at the game the writer doubts whether he would be able to hold his own against a fairly good heavyweight two years from now.

I draw my conclusions from what I have seen of other pugilists. At Johnson's time of life two years work great havoc. I have known famous fighters who, after passing the 34-year mark, have sloughed away in workmanship to such an extent that it was pitiable to one who remembered them at their best to see them in action. And they were not all fellows who dilapidated either.

The writer believes there will be a new heavyweight champion two years from now if there is not one sooner. And this is by no means an inference that I consider Flynn's chances of gaining the title thoroughly hopeless. I am free to say that I hardly looked for a Flynn victory in July, but there have been so many violent upsets of expert opinion in prize ring affairs during the past twenty years that it does not do to be too positive in matters of this kind.

Even if Johnson escapes Flynn, there is good prospect of the next world's champion being a white man. We have some capable colored heavies just now, but like Johnson, they have been a long time in service and I doubt if any one of them is as good as he was a few years ago. Leaving the age question aside, Sam Langford has been fighting ten years, Sam McVea nine and Joe Jeannette eight, and these are certainly the pick of the negro brigade. Jeannette is possibly the best preserved of the three, but a year or two more of active service will see him slowing up unless I am mistaken and as far as I know there are no younger colored heavies coming to the front just now.

Among the white fighters the writer has an idea that Al Palzer and Luther McCarty are going to develop into good men. The white hope situation is in such shape—claims of budding greatness being made in behalf of so many—that I would not undertake to say how many other prominent fighters there are in sight. I always bear in mind that Jim Jeffries, Tom Sharkey and Gus Ruhlin bobbed up with considerable suddenness about the same time and that each of them made a name for himself. Remembering this it would not surprise me if several likely heavyweight hopes were uncovered within the next 12 months.

Just as present conditions are favorable for the development of good pugilistic material. There never was a time when boxing had the foothold it has now. With the game flourishing without hindrance in so many cities throughout the country, it will be hard luck indeed if championship material is not discovered.

Incidentally it is a good time for any young heavyweight on whom the public has set the mark of its approval to tread the straight and narrow—and be mindful of the possibilities. A couple of years is not long to labor and wait and a couple of years will find Jack Johnson out of the running, provided, always, that he remains in the running after next Fourth of July.

The man who defeats Johnson—If he be a white man—will probably have it in his power to amass more wealth than any world's champion who preceded him. And the manager, or trainer, that develops Johnson's conqueror will be the envy of managers and trainers the world over.

WILBERT ROBINSON RESPONSIBLE FOR GIANTS CHAMPION MACHINE

By W. J. MacBeth.
New York, June 8.—Wilbert Robinson, veteran catcher and coach on McGraw's champion New York Giants, enjoys a most unique distinction in major league baseball. In the law and spirit of organization he is as much an active athlete as when twenty-six years ago he broke into the limelight with the old Athletics. Signed to a playing contract which entitled him to all the privileges of the youngsters who are making baseball history, Robinson is also subjected to that stern discipline which controls the fraternity. Yet in the true sense of the word, Robinson is not a player any more than he is manager. Perhaps he is more manager than player, for if John McGraw, the little Napoleon of the Polo grounds, would take advice from any man it would naturally be from the one expert in the country who has qualified for such confidence.

Whether he is chief adviser or simply the order of his chief, Robinson is nevertheless entitled to a great deal of credit that belongs to such a sensational championship array as the Giants have proved and are proving to be. None is more willing to concede this point than John J. McGraw. Because of it and of the intrinsic value of the old time campaigner as a steady asset, the manager of the local title holders has prevailed upon Wilbert Robinson to remain in New York in his capacity of coach, throughout the entire season. For a number of years Robinson has helped train New York's youngsters in the south, but invariably he quit the team when the championship was well under way. That he is to remain as one of them, in view of the runaway race the club is making, is indeed a strong tribute to Wilbert's ability.

The champion Giants boast one of the strongest battery departments in major leagues. For which no one but Robinson is responsible. No manager before the public can better tune up an aggregation, outside of battery men, than John J. McGraw. The speed and power of his forces both on offense and defense have invariably proven that from year to year. Today he pilots the fastest array of ball talent ever seen together in recent years. But until Robinson took hold, the strength of the outer and inner bulwarks was handicapped by mediocre battery material. New York lost a pennant in 1908 because the great Mathewson had no assistance from the rest of the pitching staff.

Robinson, for McGraw has made one of the greatest box departments of the game from this same mediocre 1908 array. Greatest marvel of his art is "Rube" Marquard, one of the most wonderful southpaws that ever stepped into the center of a diamond. "Rube," purchased from Indianapolis in the fall of 1908 for two years, was regarded as an "eleven thousand dollar lemon." In practice he was a lion; under fire a lamb. A terrible troubling before a record crowd in 1908 at the Polo grounds had completely destroyed Marquard's confidence. McGraw had despaired of the big fellow's recovery and would have turned him back to the minor league had he been able to secure waivers.

In the spring of 1911 Robinson devoted his sole time to Marquard. He talked with him on and off the field, encouraged him and schooled him. Told the southpaw to go ahead and pitch in fast company just the way he had always hurled in the "brush." He started him off in his old manner and gradually trimmed out the minor league faults. When the bell rang, Marquard was not physically fit, but morally sure of himself. Right from the start he proved the league's greatest sensation. And he has steadily continued so to this day. But for Robinson it is doubtful if Marquard would ever have amounted to a row of pins as a major league asset. The "Rube" showed his hearty appreciation by winning a championship for McGraw.

In the opinion of every New Yorker Chief Meyers is the greatest catcher in the game today. When he joined the club in 1909 he was about as awkward and unfinished a product as could be imagined. A great deal of the wonderful improvement attaches to the studious and observant Indian. There is a catcher who will improve steadily for some years to come because he uses his brains. Yet Chief Meyers will tell you that he has picked up no small amount of information from Wilbert Robinson. Indeed, he attributes his wonderful improvement of last season to this venerable coach.

Then there is "Red" Ames. This tough-luck fellow, who never had a really good season with New York, because when not wild as a hawk his mates had such utter lack of confidence in his ability that they usually kicked the games away is showing such remarkable effectiveness that he is likely to be among the league's leading pitchers in 1912. Robinson specialized on Leon Ames this spring. Southpaw George Witase is traveling at a faster clip right now than he has shown any other time in the past four or five seasons. Robinson is the answer. Then there is Big Jeff Tesreau. He's one of the very few pitchers John McGraw has ever used regularly in first major league term. Tesreau is making good, but Robinson promises to have him 100 per cent better a year hence. He'll make good, for Wilbert is no braggart.

Wilbert Robinson is really one of the patriarchs of the game. He antedates Cy Young by four years. The Giant coach joined the Athletics in 1886. Young joined Cleveland in 1890. In point of service, Robinson is the dean of every one in the major league uniform. He was a veteran when McGraw, Jen-

BRYAN

SAYS HE IS NOT A CANDIDATE FOR THE PRESIDENCY.

DOES NOT HOWEVER PROMISE THAT HE WILL DECLINE A NOMINATION.

(By United Press.)

Denver, Colo., June 8.—Over the long distance Wm. J. Bryan, at Loveland, Colo., tonight denied that he or his brother were in any "organized scheme" to prevent the nomination of a reactionary at the Baltimore convention.

During Bryan's brief stay in Denver earlier today he was repeatedly asked if there was any chance of his nomination at Baltimore and to each the Nebraskan smilingly replied:

"I am not a candidate and do not expect to be a candidate."

Bryan refused to make any prediction in regard to the Democratic nominee for president.

"Our delegates are anxious to win," he asserted. "The Democrats will keep their fingers on the pulse of the Republicans, listen to their calls for help and, if need be, name a man who can weld the democrats with the voters who break away from the Chicago convention."

Gives Shelter to Delphos Girl Who Had Missed Car.

A young woman said to be Ella Jarman, of Delphos, was taken to the central station for safe keeping last night and later turned over to the Door of Hope authorities. The girl informed the police that she came here to fill an engagement with a young man, and that she tarried late, missing the last car for Delphos. She appealed to relatives of Officer Grant, who seeing that she was homeless, referred her to the patrolman. After explaining the situation to night authorities, the girl was accompanied to the Door of Hope where lodging was given her.

New York, June 8.—Carefully packing her trunks and costly furniture, donning a handsome blue gown with stockings and slippers to match and putting on three diamonds, one an engagement ring, and other jewels, Miss Anna Fugh, 27, locked herself in her room and tonight was found dead from gas. A rubber tube from a gas cock to her mouth, and a note asking that her sister, Mrs. Richard Thomas, of Bayonne, N. J., be notified, indicated that Miss Fugh's death was premeditated.

IDEAS FOR HOME BUILDERS BY WM. A. RADFORD.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 173 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

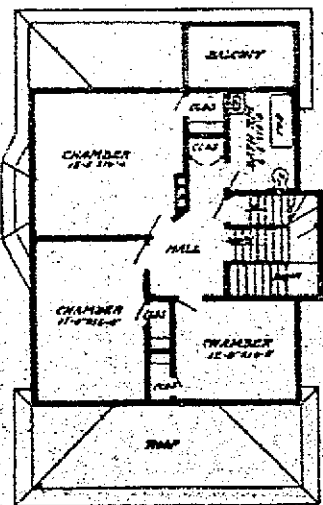

The most economical house to build and to occupy afterward is nearly square, of medium size, full two stories in height, with a good, deep cellar and an attic big enough to act as a buffer against heat in summer and cold in winter. Such houses give more room according to the size of the foundation and roof than any other design.

The house here illustrated is typical of this style. It is 31 feet wide by 28 feet from front to rear—proportions that work to good advantage. There are certain geometrical combinations that work to a disadvantage in a square house, but are easily overcome when you add a few feet to the length.

One of the difficulties is the stairway, which interferes with the proper laying-out of the rooms in every short house. Stairways in dwelling-houses have caused more gray hairs, and sent more architects to early graves, than any other feature in house building. There was a time when a rough ladder fashioned with an ax answered the purpose. It was made with the trunks of two trees for sides, and sections of smaller trees for rounds. There was a hole through the upper floor and usually an effort was made to place the opening where the roof was high enough so you could miss hitting the knots on the rafters with your head. From that time to this, stairways have grown in complexity until we think we have them about perfect.

This plan provides a projection which holds about half of the stair-

Makers of hot water heating plants and hot air furnaces are in very close competition. Improvements are being added every year, until both systems seem to be about as near perfect as human ingenuity can make them. A hot air furnace big enough to heat this house comfortably in zero weather can be installed for about $125. A hot water heating system will cost more, the difference depending largely on the kind of radiators and the extra attachments; probably $250 would be the minimum and $500 would be rather extravagant. The hot water plant will use a little less coal, because hot water is a better medium through which to convey heat. While no accurate estimate can be given without figuring the actual amount of heating surface and cubic air space, on general principles it may be said that, taking five years together, the cost of one system is about the same as the other.

There are arguments in favor of both systems for houses of this size.

First Floor Plan.

required in some old-fashioned, loose-jointed houses that are no more roomy and offer no more accommodation. Under this house is a splendid cellar that is as light as some of the best rooms in houses built a dozen years ago, when small, narrow windows were in fashion. In a basement like this you can place a modern heating apparatus that will take care of the temperature in the coldest weather; and the attention required will not worry a person more than a few minutes twice a day.

Girls Will Play Polo

Miss Eleanor Sears, who is continually doing something to make her society friends on both sides of the country talk, has again stirred up things by announcing that she is organizing a woman's polo team. Its organization, she explained, was for the purpose of playing a similar team recently organized by the feminine members of the Meadow Brook Country Club, on Long Island. In speaking of the costume of her team, Miss Sears said: "We will wear the regulation costume worn by men players, breeches and all. Why, we would be endangering our lives if we ever mounted a polo pony with a divided skirt."

WHEAT CLOSES WITH NO SPECIAL CHANGE

OPENS A LITTLE BELOW FRIDAY'S CLOSE BUT BUYING WAS SHORT ALL DAY.

Chicago, June 7.—Wheat didn't lose anything at the close of the week, for there was little more to lose. The selling for the past six days has been unfavorable, and even at the opening this morning it was realized that but little further crop could be made. The July and Sept. crop sold down a quarter while corn for July was up the same amount. Oats opened unchanged. The close showed: wheat, July and Sept. up 1-8. Oats, July up 1-2; Sept. up 1-8. Provisions higher.

The average professional in wheat has made up his mind that higher prices are sure to be seen, and that the putting out of snow lines around at the present price level is a dangerous procedure. Bull news poured into the wheat pit from nearly every section of the Southwest at the close of the week and a great deal of it was from sources undeniably conservative and reliable.

All the experts who made an effort to anticipate the figures in the Government crop report, scheduled for Monday, could see only one way downward. The leading authority put the aggregate amount at 360,000,000 bush, as against 355,000,000 bush predicted in May, and 370,000,000 bush according to the calculations at Washington.

Ocean Bathing in Spain.

All Spaniards who can afford it go to the seaside in the summertime. Here the great feature is the bathing. A large wooden building is erected at some distance from the shore, inside of which the law demands that all the women must bathe, no men being allowed anywhere in the vicinity. During the bathing hours music is played in the inclosure, and refreshments are served on the premises. Of course, swimming is out of the question and drowning accidents unknown.

Importance of Physiognomy.

"Do you believe a man with a receding chin is likely to get along as well in this world as a man with a chin that projects?" "It all depends upon circumstances. If the man with the receding chin is a son of the president of the company and the man with the chin that projects is merely working his way up from the bottom I should be inclined to feel that physiognomy would not be of vast importance."

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Ohler of west Market street, enjoyed a pleasant automobile trip from Detroit Tuesday where Mrs. Ohler has been visiting relatives the past two weeks.

COPPER STOCK IS WEEK'S SENSATION

WHILE GERMAN LOANS NOW BEING NEGOTIATED CAUSE SPECULATION

(By United Press.) New York, June 8.—The stock market opened steady, prices being fractionally above yesterday's close. Copper held the center of the field. The market closed dull.

German financial interests continue to negotiate here for loans, as well as in London and Paris. The latter market is being most favored at the moment, but London's spare resources also are being requisitioned, as was shown in gold shipments from the British metropolis to Berlin.

Other foreign conditions, including Italy's pressing financial needs, the riots in Belgium and recurrent labor troubles in London and the provinces, are being taken into account, and the more acute phases of the Cuban situation may be regarded as something of a factor.

To the Teacher.

A teacher who can arouse a feeling for one single good action, for one single good poem, accomplishes more than he who fills our memory with rows on rows of natural objects, classified with name and form. For what is the result of all these, except what we know as well without them, that the human figure pre-eminently and peculiarly is made in the image and likeness of God?—Goethe.

Very Good Fit.

Sometimes the blunder of a child seems like the wisest man's wisdom. Such might be said of the little fellow in Hutchinson, according to The Gazette, who, desiring some of the boarding housekeeper's delight, commonly called hash, said: "Please pass the trash."—Kansas City Star.

MAKING

LITTLE PROGRESS IN PACIFYING THE ISLANDS.

TWO DAYS HAVE PASSED SINCE THE UNITED STATES NOTIFIED CUBA.

(By United Press.)

Washington, D. C., June 8.—Though two days have now passed since the United States notified Cuba that Military occupation is certain unless President Gomez promptly suppresses the negro revolution, up to tonight reports to the state department indicated that President Gomez is making but little progress in pacifying the island. Lawlessness prevails throughout the eastern half and the only safety is where foreign corporations have established their own private guards or where American marines are doing guard duty. No general engagement between the Cuban troops and the rebels has been reported.

American interests at Siboney have been reassured by the landing of 50 marines from the gunboat Paducah at that point, but the Spanish American Iron company's manager at Cuero has sent an urgent request for marines. For some unexplained reason the Cuban troops there have either deserted or withdrawn.

State department officials also attach little importance to the proposed mission here of Orestes Ferrar, to ask the United States for an extension of time in which President Gomez can put down the revolution. Ferrar is expected to reach Washington tomorrow. He will be accorded a hearing, but officials said tonight, nothing he could say would change their attitude.

SAREET CAR MEN ATTACK CARS AND ARREST FOLLOWS.

WEALTHY SOCIETY WOMAN FURNISHES BAIL ON PERSONAL PROMISE.

Boston, June 8.—Striking street car men last night attacked cars at Roxbury crossing and Somerville, and seven men were arrested by the police reserves, called out to suppress the disturbances.

Up to one a. m. a few cars were in operation within the city limits and there was delayed service by a dozen cars or so were running to Cambridge and in Somerville, but as early as 10 o'clock all traffic was stopped on Daily street, Sullivan Square in Charlestown and Forest Hills.

Bails for all union men arrested during the street car strike was furnished last evening by a wealthy society woman, Mrs. Elizabeth Glendower Evans. Mrs. Evans makes only one condition, that each man bailed shall promise her personally to appear for trial, and not to take part in any more violence while under bond. The bail commission fixed all bonds at from $100 to $300, varying with the seriousness of the charge. As about 75 strikers have been arrested this will tie up about $15,000 of Mrs. Evans' money.

FEDERALS

HEMMING IN REBEL ARMY AND RECLAIMING REBEL STRONGHOLDS.

MEXICAN FEDERALS IN POSSESSION OF RAILWAY COMMUNICATION OF ADVANTAGE.

(By United Press.)

El Paso, Texas, June 8.—Mexican federal forces are tonight hemming in the rebel army at Bachimá and the rebel camp of Chihuahua and reclaiming rebel strongholds in western Chihuahua and are moving upon Juarez from the eastern border.

Today a federal force from Sonora, which has been operating around Casas Grandes, occupied the town of Madera, where are located the extensive lumber plants of the Pearson Company, an English corporation. The town had been held by the rebels since the beginning of the revolution. The Federals now are in communication by railway with Chihuahua and Juarez and are in a position to move upon either place quickly.

Forty-five miles east of Juarez, Federal command of five hundred under General Sanjines is moving upon the border city and already is menacing the rebel line.

Federals under Rahago today engaged a rebel cavalry detachment under General Campos and a sharp fight took place. The rebels were unable to halt the federal advance.

General Orozco has captured the fortifying of Bachimá, where he expects to stop General Huerta's advance. Rebels fear that Huerta already is moving his men around the mountains to approach Chihuahua from another direction.

GAINS 40 POUNDS IN 40 DAYS. REMARKABLE RESULTS OF THE NEW TISSUE BUILDER BLOODLINE. IN MANY CASES OF RUN-DOWN MEN AND WOMEN. PROVE IT YOURSELF BY BUYING A BOTTLE OF BLOODLINE NOW.

"By George, I never saw anything like the effect of that new treatment, Bloodline, for the building up of weight and lost nerve force. It acted more like a miracle than a medicine," said a well known gentleman yesterday in speaking of the revolution that had taken place in his condition. "I began to think that there was nothing on earth that could make me fat. I tried tonics, digestives, heavy eating, diets, milk, beer and almost everything else you could think of, but without result."

Any man or woman who is thin can recover normal weight by the remarkable new treatment, Bloodline. "I have been thin for years and began to think it was natural for me to be that way. Finally I read about the remarkable processes brought about by the use of Bloodline, so I decided to try it myself. Well, when I look at myself in the mirror now, I think it is somebody else. I have put on just forty pounds during the last forty days and never felt stronger or more 'new' in my life."

"Bloodline is a powerful inducer to nutrition, increases cell-growth, makes perfect the assimilation of food, increases the number of blood corpuscles and as a necessary result builds up muscles, and solid healthy flesh, and rounds out the figure."

For women who can never appear stylish in anything they wear because of their thinness this remarkable treatment may prove a revelation. It is a beauty maker as well as a form builder and nerve strengthener. Bloodline costs 50 cents for the usual $1.00 size bottles. Mail orders filled by the Bloodline Corporation, Boston, Mass. Society and Household

By Henrietta L. Keyes.

"And what is so rare as a day in June?"

This picture drawn by James Russell Lowell in his "Vision of Sir Launfal" has been before beauty loving eyes constantly the past week. "What is so rare as a day in June" has echoed in the hearts of many. Even so have love, beauty and romance reigned in social circles, as is evidenced by the numerous weddings, most prominent among them being the one in Marietta, when Henry Deisel, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Deisel, Sr., claimed his lovely bride, Miss Gladys E. Alderman, Monday evening. Very pretty, and quite elaborate also was the wedding of Mr. Morris Moskin, of this city, and Miss Irma Rosenfeld, of Marion, Ind. Several pretty weddings in Lima homes have also been celebrated and the first week in June is veritably carrying out the old idea that June is the month of weddings.

Another feature event on Society's program of the past week was a charming six o'clock dinner at the Country Club, Tuesday, given by Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Lufkin, in honor of the tenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Kaula, of Boston.

Several other delightful compliments have been paid Mrs. Kaula in the form of a dainty luncheon given by Mrs. B. B. Mitchell, Wednesday, and a pretty appointed dinner given at the Elk's Home by Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ritchie for Mrs. Kaula, Wednesday evening.

An enjoyable affair at the Business Women's Club was the monthly club dinner. Oriental decorations and menu being carried out in a pleasant effect. The terms of sewing and cooking lessons, conducted respectively by Miss Clara Herr and Mr. Luah M. Butler, were concluded Tuesday evening with a dainty luncheon and delightful social gathering.

Many of the young people of the city who attend the colleges and universities in other cities are arriving home for the summer months and all are being given a hearty welcome by circles of old friends and acquaintances.

Many outside attractions of the past week have made luncheons, teas and parties in Society columns conspicuous by their absence only a very few of them being given on the week's calendar.

Social circles of the city have been deeply interested in the elaborate wedding of Mr. Henry Bernhardt Deisel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Deisel, Sr., to Miss Gladys E. Alderman, prominent society girl of Marietta, which was an event on Monday evening, June third. The marriage ceremony, reception and wedding supper were celebrated at the home of the bride's parents in Marietta and proved to be among the most beautiful and perfectly appointed of home weddings. The impressive religious service performed by the Rev. Henry Kelsey of the First Congregational Church, of that city, was uniting two of the oldest families of Marietta and Lima in the marriage of the two young people.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Alderman, the bride's parents, was most artistically decorated for the momentous event. A wealth of bridal roses and pink and white peonies, ferns, palms and smilax, combined in an enchanting arrangement formed the beauty-bower for the festivities. Huge cases of pink peonies with a background of palms and ferns and graceful festoons of smilax, adorned the drawing room, and in the library, roses ferns and white peonies bloomed in fragrant abundance. The parlor where the ceremony was performed was a scene of beauty well fitted for a background to the bridal party. The large bay window formed an improvised altar and was banked with tall palms, ferns and vases of scarlet peonies.

At eight o'clock, the hour appointed for the ceremony, Miss Marie Hamilton sang "O Promise Me," in full sweet tones, and upon its finale, Mrs. Bertha Metcalf, at the piano and Miss Alice Hamilton at the violin, sounded Mendelssohn's Wedding march. The bridal procession entered with Mrs. Katherine Bizantz leading the party, wearing a lovely gown of pink satin with an over dress of pink brocade chiffon, and carrying a shower bouquet of pink Killarney roses. A spray of algerettes and a band of pink roses adorned her hair. Miss Lillian Deisel, sister of the groom, as maid-of-honor, came next. Her costume was of the palest pink satin with an over dress of filmy gauze of pink made in draped effect and caught with a sash of blue chiffon. In her arms she carried a huge bouquet of pink Killarney roses.

At this juncture the musicians, blended the Mendelssohn's into Lohengrin's "Bridal Chorus," and the bride, a perfect picture of loveliness, entered, leaning upon the arm of her father. Her exquisite wedding gown was of rich white Duchesse satin, with a bodice of Brussels lace, the draperies being caught with sprays of orange blossoms, while at her throat she wore an exquisite diamond drop held by a lace made in cap effect, and fastened with a wreath of orange blossoms, while at her throat she wore a costly diamond drop held by a slender thread of gold, which was the gift of Mr. Henry Deisel, Sr. She carried a huge bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies.

The young bride-groom met his bride at the altar, attended by Mr. C. D. Alderman as best man, and Mr. Francis Wieser, and the vows were solemnly spoken when the bride's father had given her away. A short reception and an elaborate wedding supper followed the impressive ceremony. Seated about the beautiful bride table were the bride and groom, and the members of the bridal party, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Alderman, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Deisel, Sr., Mrs. Alfred Weimner, and Mrs. C. D. Alderman.

The ladies in the receiving line were beautifully gowned. Mrs. Alderman wore lavender mesallin with an over dress of lavender chiffon. Mrs. Deisel, blue mesallin with an over dress of blue grenadine. Mrs. Weimner, of Lima, her wedding gown of white satin and rose pointed lace.

At eleven o'clock, the newly wedded pair departed for a honeymoon trip in the East, and upon their return will reside in this city at 415 south Cole street. They will be at home after July first.

The bride-groom is connected with his father, in the extensive manufacturing concern of the Deisel-Weimner company. He is a prominent young man, with a host of friends who will welcome his lovely young bride.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Alderman, and is very popular in social circles of Marietta. She is a graduate of National Park Seminary at Washington, D. C., and has traveled in several European countries. Her sweet disposition, complete education and beauty, entitle her to the prominent position she will now occupy as the mistress of the new home.

The girls of the Sewing and Cooking classes at the Business Women's club, were pleasantly entertained by their instructors, Miss Clara Herr and Mrs. Luah Butler, at the club rooms, Tuesday evening. A sort of final test in sewing occupied the first place on the program, the twenty girls of the sewing class each being required to place all stitches they had learned during their lessons upon squares of muslin. Those who did the best were awarded pretty prizes, which were two lovely pin cushions, each of different design.

Pleased by a Private

QUEEN WILHELMINA.

The artillery corps at Camp Satory are talking about a private in their ranks who is proud of his part in upholding traditional French gallantry. It happened while Queen Wilhelmina of Holland was making a tour of inspection of the camp, one of the visits that terminated her last French trip. The Queen accompanied by President Fallieres were on the field watching the operation of a field battery. As Her Majesty was about to return the soldier noted that the ground was muddy. He ran to an ammunition wagon, and seizing a number of boards, spread them over the muddy spots to protect the Queen's feet from the dampness. The Queen was so pleased that she turned to the soldier and offered her hand, who bowed low over the hand and kissed it.

Mrs. Butler's cooking class, consisting of forty girls, many of them being members of the sewing class also, occupied the rest of the program. The lesson was on making cheese croquettes and was successfully demonstrated. As a conclusion ice cream in hand-made birch-bark boats, and cakes were served by the two hostesses.

Miss Mae Murphy of 557 South McDonald street, entertained delightfully on Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Mayme Sault, of Chicago, who is in the city visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Brice, of 222 east Vine street. The evening was spent enjoyably in various social ways, several interesting games of Pedro being also played, resulting in the winning of the pretty prize by Miss Kathryn O'Brien and William Decker. As a conclusion to the pleasures the merry company enjoyed a dainty luncheon.

The list of guests included: Miss Brien, Miss Mary O'Connor, Miss Naomi Thomas, Miss Marie Kepner, Miss Irene Park, and Sam Weil of Chicago, Jack Brice, Henry Marsh, William Decker, George Cullen, Steve Jennings, of Chicago and Fred Shappell.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Carner, of west Market street, accompanied by Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Emma Carner, and Miss Nora Reilly, comprised an auto party who will visit Cleveland, Buffalo and Niagara, going the whole distance by automobile. The party left the city Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Fisher of west Wayne street, will leave in a few days to spend the summer at Oden, Mich., where they have a cottage and for the benefit of the health of both.

Featuring social events of the past week, was the six o'clock dinner, of exceedingly beautiful appointments, at Shawnee Club, Tuesday, given by Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Lufkin in honor of the tenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Kaula, of Boston. The decorations were all effected in the colors, pink and white, and the long table at which the guests were seated presented a picture of rare beauty. In its center stood a wedding cake upon which were ten pink candles surrounding a miniature bride and bridegroom. The tiny bride was beautifully gowned in white satin, and the groom wore a black satin suit with a white satin vest. A number of large bouquets of fragrant pink carnations were charmingly arranged on the table, and tall crystal candle sticks, tied with pink ribbon, and graced by silken shades of pink blending into silvery sheen, stood at each plate.

Seated about this beautiful table were twenty guests, including: Mr. and Mrs. William Kaula, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ritchie, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Bates, Mrs. George S. Vicary, Mrs. W. L. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. A. White, Mrs. F. T. Cuthbert, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Gooding, Mr. and Mrs. Marsh Thompson, Mr. J. C. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Seifridge, and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Lufkin. At the dinner, Mrs. Kaula, the lady of honor, was presented with a large corsage bouquet of sweet peas and pink orchids.

Immediately after the serving of a delectable menu of dainty viands, the guests repaired to the ball room to indulge in the ever captivating bridge. At the entrance of the ball room, a clever surprise stood waiting the guests of honor. Heaped upon a table was a load of presents for the bride and groom of ten years, all of them consisting of tin or aluminum ware. Much merriment ensued, when the presents were presented by the givers, and accepted by the recipients.

Five tables of bridge were called into play, the ones holding highest score in the series, being Mr. Marsh Thompson, Mr. R. L. Bates, Mrs. W. B. Ritchie, Mrs. George Vicary and Mrs. F. T. Cuthbert. Each was awarded a pretty prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Kaula were well known among prominent society people of the city, and were complimented with several other enjoyable events in honor of their wedding anniversary this week.

The Merry-makers held another of their most enjoyable meetings, at the home of Mrs. C. C. Bathel, on east Second street, Thursday afternoon, with every member of the club present. The home was charmingly adorned with roses and peonies, a large bowl-full of roses being found in every conspicuous corner. Music and fancy work occupied the moments of the happy afternoon. Two clever contests were also contrived by the hostess for the enjoyment of the guests, the first one, a guessing girls' names contest, being won by Mrs. Crumline, who was awarded a pretty fan as a prize, and the second, an alphabet contest, finding Mrs. Miller the best guesser, she also receiving a lovely fan as a reward for her merit.

Late in the afternoon, the guests were invited into the prettily decorated dining room, to partake of a delicious luncheon served by the hostess. A tree of roses graced the center of the table while small bouquets of roses were strewn about the snowy cover. Dainty white cards tied with pink ribbon marked each place. The menu was consisted of:

Pork Sandwiches with Lettuce Mayonnaise Dressing
Potato Salad on Lettuce Leaf
Coffee
Strawberry Brick Ice Cream
Cake

The guests of honor during the afternoon were: Mrs. John Fisher, and daughter, Miss Pauline, of Kenton, O.

The club will meet again in two weeks, with Mrs. Allgire as the hostess.

A very enjoyable affair of the week was an old-fashioned dinner given by Mrs. George S. Vicary, at her home on west Market street, Thursday evening. The long table in the dining room was laid with a red and white table cloth, and the dishes were all of the plainest and quaintest fashion. Two large castors like those used by our grandmothers stood in the center of the table, and a large ty brush of red, white and blue occupied a prominent place. The menu contained all of the good old-fashioned dishes, of substantial viands prepared in most appetizing ways, even including apple butter, strawberry jam and honey. Instead of being served in courses by attendants, all the delicacies were placed upon the table and every one was allowed to help himself or herself, in accordance with all the other features of the unique entertainment, the hostess called the guests to dinner with a large bell. Seated about the cheerful festal board were a number of the most intimate friends of the host and hostess.

The monthly club dinner, of the Business Women's club was held at the club rooms, Wednesday evening, and proved to be an affair of great enjoyment, as well of unique appointments, which were all carried out in Japanese and Chinese combinations. The dining room was illuminated by the light of many gay Japanese lanterns and the background for the whole scene was a large screen with the soft light of the lanterns behind it. Great bouquets of peonies were arranged about the rooms and the same flower was used in decoration.

LIFE ON A NEW WORLD 100,000 TIMES BIGGER THAN EARTH

Gigantic Planets, the Captives of Strange Suns, Whose Nightmarish Creatures Live in Air Thicker Than the Ocean Depths Where the Titanic Lies

By Professor Garrett P. Serviss, the Distinguished Astronomer.

ONE of the most interesting recent discoveries of modern astronomy is that of the existence of huge invisible companions to many stars, and still more interesting is the conclusion that these extraordinary bodies may be gigantic planets revolving in the light of the stars with which they are connected. If they are planets, they so enormously exceed those that revolve around our sun, in magnitude, that they must be regarded as an entirely different species of worlds than ours. The earth placed beside one of them would be like a mouse beside an elephant, or a trout beside a whale. Even the great planet Jupiter, which is 1,300 times as large as the whole earth, would be utterly insignificant in comparison with one of these mysterious bodies which has been found revolving around the star Algol in the northern sky. That body is more than a million times as large as the earth. In fact, it is almost as large as the star around which it revolves—although that star is larger than our sun—and yet it is utterly invisible, except at certain periods when it passes between us and Algol and thus causes a partial eclipse of its bright companion. Even then it cannot be seen directly, and its form and dimensions are estimated from the amount of obscuration that it causes. Its diameter is calculated at about 40,000 miles.

We can get a realizing sense of what this means if we imagine that our vast world to be a hollow sphere, with the earth placed at its center. Then there would not only be plenty of room for the moon to continue to revolve round the earth, as it now does, at a distance of 240,000 miles, but there would be a clear space of 780,000 miles, on all sides, between the orbit of the moon and the inside of the shell of the Brodignagian planet!

The surface of such a planet exceeds that of the earth ten thousand times. The Atlantic ocean stretched out upon it, to the same relative size that it is on the earth, would be more than 300,000 miles broad. If it had surface features exactly proportioned to those of the earth, its loftiest mountains would be from 400 to 500 miles high, and its oceans from 200 to 300 miles deep! A distance corresponding to that between New York and Chicago would be ninety thousand miles long. And, if everything were constructed on the same scale, there would be 600 feet tall, and the giant redwoods of California eight or nine miles high!

Of course, the force of gravity, or the weight of bodies, must also be enormously increased. If we suppose the mean density of the giant planet to be the same as that of the earth, a body that weighs one pound here weighs about a hundred pounds there, and an average man, having the same size that he has on the earth, would weigh seven and a half tons. But if he were 600 feet tall—that is to say, proportioned to the size of the planet—he would weigh seven and a half million tons.

But there are many other interesting calculations, all based upon perfectly well known principles, that can be made about the condition of things on a world so gigantic as that which accompanies Algol. We may, for instance, inquire about the state of its atmosphere. The density and nature of the air surrounding any planet depend upon the force of gravity of that planet. If the planet is very small, the force with which it holds bodies, or gases, upon its surface is proportionately small. Thus we know that a little world, like the moon, on which the weight of bodies is only about one-sixth as great as on the earth, is unable to hold permanently under its control any of the light gases which constitute the air that we breathe. The lighter a gas the quicker it escapes, because its molecules are in more rapid vibration than those of heavier gases. A gas is a substance in which the molecules are continually flying about in every direction, with a speed depending upon the nature of the gas, and unless the attractive force of a planet is sufficient to restrain the molecules of a gas when their direction of flight happens to be away from the center of the planet, then those molecules, and ultimately the whole of the gas, will escape into outer space.

To determine whether any planet is able to hold the gases that make an atmosphere, we find out, from its size and density, what speed a gaseous molecule, or any other particle of matter, would have to have in order to fly directly away from it and never return. In the case of the earth this speed is known to be about seven miles per second. If, then, any particle should start away, radially, from the surface of the earth's atmosphere, with a velocity exceeding seven miles per second, it would escape into space and never come back. Now, the molecules of hydrogen have a maximum velocity of vibration exceeding this limit, and, as a consequence, we find no free hydrogen in the air. But the molecules of oxygen and nitrogen, and the other gases which are found in air, have velocities less than seven miles per second, wherefore they remain attached density—the pressure would amount to three-quarters of a ton per square inch!

Now, if it could be supposed that the inhabitants of that planet were composed of substances of relatively small density, so that an animal as large as a man would weigh no more there than a man does here, they would almost be able to float in the air, and with comparatively slight aid could actually do so. Aerial navigation would be as easy and natural to them as swimming is to us.

This leads us to another consideration. We have thus far assumed that the mean density of the great planet in the Algol system is equal to that of the earth. The probability is, however, that its density may not be more than one-quarter of the earth's. This calculation is based both upon observation and upon analogy. The mean density of the sun, which is a body of nearly the same size

One of the Grotesque, Flattened Deep Sea Fish, Built to Live in Water No Denser Than the Air on the Great Planet.

A Diagram Showing the Enormous Size of the Planet That Floats Around Algol, the Demon Star. Earth and Moon Could Float Inside It with 180,000 Miles to Spare.

"Imagine the scene on this enormous world. If we think of its inhabitants in our own familiar forms, we would see grotesque, crawling creatures like the elephant, flattened to the planet's surface by the enormous pull of gravitation, man would be a weird caterpillar, trees would grow with their branches dragged to earth or develop balloon-like foliage and the birds would be like mobile globes of life floating in the thick air."

as that with which we are dealing, is one quarter of the earth's density. In that case the total gravitation of the planet would be only 250,000 times greater than the earth's, and the weight of bodies on its surface would be reduced to twenty-five times their weight here. But even then the pressure of its atmosphere, supposed to be relatively of the same extent as the earth's atmosphere, would be 375 pounds to the square inch—which is a much higher pressure than any careful engineer would dare to put into the best steam boiler. A cubic yard of that air, removed to the earth's surface and allowed suddenly to expand, would blow a building to pieces like an explosion of dynamite!

But we have not yet touched upon all the curious consequences resulting from the great size of this mysterious planet near Algol. Assuming that its mean density is one quarter that of the earth, and that, consequently, bodies upon its surface weigh twenty-five times as much as the same bodies do here, we may reasonably conclude that its inhabitants, instead of being giants proportioned to the great size of their world, must rather be dwarfs, only a foot or two in height. This conclusion results from the consideration that, if they were as large as the inhabitants of the earth they would be unable to stand up, but would lie under their immense weight. It would crush them down. On such a planet an average man would weigh 3,750 pounds. (This differs from our former estimate of 15,900 pounds, or 7½ tons, because we now assume that the density of the planet is but a quarter of the earth's instead of being equal to it.)

But could a man of that weight possibly stand upright? Apparently, the only way in which such a creature would be possible to the inhabitants of such a world would be by making their weight be reduced to a point where bones and muscles could easily support it. This could be accomplished by making the stature of a man about 24 inches. A man of that height on a planet having (at its surface) twenty-five times the gravitative force of the earth would weigh about as much as a six-footer on the earth, and no more. A full-grown elephant, in order to be comfortable, would have to shrink to a height of about four feet or be flattened out like a flounder and move about in that shape.

We have spoken of but one of these great bodies, that which accompanies Algol, but, in fact many others are known. There is a considerable number of stars which have huge dark companions that may be regarded as giant planets. We become aware of their existence by the effects of their attraction upon the stars. It is even possible, in such cases, to calculate the relative size and weight of these invisible bodies. The one near Algol is, as we have said, about 840,000 miles in diameter, while Algol itself has a diameter of about 1,125,000 miles. They revolve round their common center of gravity in the exceedingly brief period of sixty hours, and they are only 3,320,000 miles apart, from center to center.

But this is not all. There is at least one of these giant planetary bodies which is actually larger, or more massive, than its own sun—reversing the ordinary rule with a vengeance. It is the great body which is connected with the bright star Castor, in the constellation of the Twins.

The arrival of a huge dark body, or stranger planet, in our system, whether it resulted in a collision with the sun or not, would inevitably upset the present planetary system. The earth and the other planets would be swirled from their orbits; the existing orderly arrangement would be broken up; if the intruder approached close to the sun the latter would burst out with redoubled energies, shriveling up, perhaps, the whole retinue of its planets like moths in a flame; and the hitherto peaceful worlds, driving wildly hither and thither, might destroy one another in fiery collisions.

"Or it may be that the inhabitants are nebulous giants to whom a flock of our aeroplanes would be no more than a flock of wasps."

The Kismet Walking Gown, a "Lucile" Creation in Natural Color Tussore. The Front of the Bodice is Heavily Embroidered in Self-Colored Silk in Oriental Designs.

LADY DUFF-GORDON, the famous "Lucile" of London, and foremost creator of fashions in the world, writes each week the fashion article for this newspaper, presenting all that is newest and best in style for well-dressed women.

Lady Duff-Gordon's new Paris establishment brings her into close touch with that centre of fashion.

Lady Duff-Gordon's American establishment is at No. 17 West Thirty-sixth street, New York City.

By Lady Duff-Gordon, ("Lucile")
THERE are, I believe, lucky dresses and unlucky dresses. Dress has a force all its own. I do not mean this in a superstitious sense at all. I believe that what we call luck is merely being in harmony with the great and good forces of nature. When we are unlucky we have, perhaps, through no fault of our own, run counter to nature's harmonies. As dress is so much a part of modern life, and as upon our appearances depend so many things, so one should study most carefully the relations between one's own self and dress, so that no harmony may be overlooked and the dress become consequently unlucky.

One should always have full command over one's self. Most important, one should be able to impress upon others the fact that one is in full command.

Just as a little illustration: Imagine a business man who is about to discuss a serious deal involving millions and one with far-reaching consequences. He must discuss this deal with half a dozen men whom he must impress with his good sound business judgment and skill. Suppose that a man appears at the meeting in black color clothes and with a waistcoat of most intense reds and greens and with a glaring necktie. He would find, nine cases out of ten, that his deal was not successful. He would be apt to blame it upon his bad luck. I should blame it upon the disharmony of his waistcoat and necktie, and their effect upon the minds of the men to whom he talked.

Luck is, after all, simply having things happen to us which we want to have happen, and which are pleasant. Bad luck is our being thwarted in things we want to have happen to us, and having things happen to us that are unpleasant and which we do not want. In this modern world no one can stand entirely by one's self. There are all sorts of points of contact with our fellows, and the sum total of these points of contact make up our life.

Particularly is woman, who, after all, must depend upon her appearance than upon anything else, susceptible to these influences. Her good luck comes, mainly from others. So, too, her bad luck. It therefore, behooves her to be so in harmony with herself that none of these disharmonies we call bad luck can creep in.

The front of the bodice is heavily embroidered in self-colored silk in Oriental designs. The long loose coat is just fastened below the waist with a single button. A red satin Turkish cap with a long black and red tassel falling down the side completes the costume.

The other picture shows a fine white lace garden party dress with overdress of palish pink tulle. The bodice is entirely of lace with tiny puff sleeves of same with long net cuffs to the wrist. The collar is of the newest mode being of lace with wire around the edge to make it stand up. The front of the bodice is held across with a fastening of silk tulle of same. A bunch of green chiffon and tissue flowers tucked into the belt at the side adds the necessary touch of color.

A novelty which has achieved instant popularity is the "Robespierre" collar—a close connection of the "Byron" and like this shape providing a most becoming frame for the back of the neck while the front is left quite free by the down-turned softness of white lawn.

The V-shaped opening suits most people wonderfully well—much better than the round, in fact—and altogether I am heartily in favor of this new form of neckwear, as it should make it possible for every woman to discard the high collar-bands, which are not only disfiguring to so many, but actually injurious to all. For I admit that if the throat is to be shown all round, it should be of the rounded whiteness, which is, alas, the privilege of youth and youth alone, so that many older women have no hesitated to adopt the ordinary down-turned collar, much as they would have wished to do so. But now the "Robespierre" collar solves the difficulty for them, and if they will take advantage of it they can also take years off their lives.

The "Byron" model, being more deeply down-turned, will be better suited to those more youthful and attractive necks, though even this affords more protection at the back than the other shapes, which gave "first aid" to the sufferers from the high collar-band!

Other and larger collars, which are draped to complete coats and wraps, are in their latest and prettiest developments, combining Bohemian lace and finely hand-embroidered cambric, while point de Venise lace is solely responsible for other such decorative additions. Some of them—form a very deep point, reaching to the waist-line at the back, but whether they are there rounded, or pointed, or square, they are almost all alike in being of exceedingly modest and tapering size in front.

There is, indeed, a veritable rage for lace and broderies of all kinds, and some very effective combinations of black and cream or ochre shadings are notable, the black usually supplying the foundation of net and the color coming into evidence as a border, and being either in gipsy trails or of Bohemian style lace. Another feature of the season's trimmings in this particular connection is the variety of narrow edgings, some designed for the finishing of lingerie dresses being of white lawn, outlined with embroidery beads, while others in net are combined with some narrow guipures are in their turn further beautified with tassel fringe and a fine pleat top! Fringe festoons and ball fringes there are, too, whose entire width is only about half an inch, while the introduction of fringe on wider laces has also been tried with very good effect.

Other and larger collars, which are draped to complete coats and wraps, are in their latest and prettiest developments, combining Bohemian lace and finely hand-embroidered cambric, while point de Venise lace is solely responsible for other such decorative additions. Some of them—form a very deep point, reaching to the waist-line at the back, but whether they are there rounded, or pointed, or square, they are almost all alike in being of exceedingly modest and tapering size in front.

There is, indeed, a veritable rage for lace and broderies of all kinds, and some very effective combinations of black and cream or ochre shadings are notable, the black usually supplying the foundation of net and the color coming into evidence as a border, and being either in gipsy trails or of Bohemian style lace. No. 177--Straighten and Strengthen Your Back

By Mme. Lina Cavaleri, the Most Famous Living Beauty

MME. LINA CAVALIERI tells her readers to-day how to acquire a graceful and attractive figure. She does so in her usual practical and instructive way. The back is, so to speak, the basis of the figure, and she gives sound and helpful advice as to how to make and keep the back strong enough to bear its burdens and maintain a graceful carriage.

By Mme. Lina Cavaleri.
I ALWAYS judge a woman's back by her carriage. If the muscles of her back are weak their weakness displays itself in her bearing.

Women fancy that a weak back is the heritage of their sex. They fancy that aches and pains in that region are inevitable. In this they are mistaken. The back may be rebuilt and strengthened as can other weak spots. Discreet exercises are the best aid in that desirable direction.

For children who are growing round-shouldered, shoulder braces are, for a time, beneficial, for they train the muscles to erectness. When this training has been accomplished the braces should be removed and the child required to practice the carriage the brace has taught him. But for a grown person I never advise braces except as a last resort in a desperate case, and particularly in cases of lung affections, to require the person to inhale fresh air.

We often receive the advice, "Rest your back to stop its aching." This is sound advice in cases of extreme fatigue, but generally "Lifting moderate weights from the floor is a good exercise for strengthening the back."

the best way to rest the back is to strengthen it, and the way to strengthen it is by well directed, but not violent, exercises.

Every muscle in the body is there for some use. Everyone should have enough exercise to keep it healthy. The muscles of the back are weak because they are so seldom used.

The best exercises for development of these neglected muscles are those which involve stooping. Spotted, pampered beauties test themselves by stooping, and if they can touch the floor with their finger tips, without bending the knees, they pronounce themselves fit. Women less spoiled and pampered have far less anxiety about keeping fit. Their everyday work requires enough stooping to keep the muscles of the back flexible and the muscles of the abdomen firm, and of normal size.

Lifting moderate weights from the floor is a good exercise for strengthening the back. If the back be very weak it is well to begin with an empty bucket. As exercises strengthen it gradually fill the pail. A basket with a handle may serve the same purpose. Stoop slowly, and slowly lift the weight. Keep the leg muscles tense and make the muscles of the arms tense. Reach slowly forward and lift the weight with both hands. Lift it on a level with the waist line. Then lower it, as slowly, to the floor.

Next to stooping, twisting the muscles of the back are a good exercise for strengthening it. But let this twisting be slowly and gently done, or this will be one of the instances in which the remedy is worse than the disease. Violent exercise will only make the muscles weaker and cause a more severe ache, and possibly a severe injury, by wrenching them.

This is the best method for the twisting. Lift the arms slowly above the head, with the elbows unknit. Then slowly turn the body to the right, resting its weight on the left leg. Swing the body around, keeping the arms above the head but shifting the weight to the right leg. This is a most valuable exercise, for it contorts the muscles, causes a supply of blood to flow through them and by the unusual action they gain strength.

The same exercise as the foregoing can be advantageously done with the arms stretched out horizontally before you, and swinging them in a large half circle, being careful to shift the weight from one leg to the other and keeping tense the muscles of the legs on which the weight rests.

As a rule round shoulders are the sign of weakened muscles. Or the appearance of round shoulders may be the result of the great accumulation of fat across the shoulders. A good exercise to correct this is a simple squaring of the shoulders, drawing in at the same time lungs full of air. Push back your arms so that the forearms are on a level with the waist and the elbows are pushed as far back as possible. By a gently sawing motion move the elbows forward and back. This causes a rush of blood to the muscles surrounding the shoulders, and nourishes the muscles which you are exercising and banishes the fat cells.

To banish fat from the back draw the arms back as I have described. Thrust between the back and elbow a stout cane or a broomstick. Manipulate the cane by means of the elbows so that the muscles are not only strengthened but the cane is rolled over the back. The effect is to break the fat cells.

This is sometimes more easily done if you hold the cane in a diagonal position. Useful to the same end is the exercise of sitting erect in a chair and exaggeratedly shuffling the shoulders, first one, then the other, then both together.

Work with light dumbbells will also in time reduce the fat of the back, but I counsel the use of light clubs and these in moderation. Standing erect, the feet resting flatly on the floor and the knees unbending, raise the dumbbells slowly above the head without bending the elbows. As slowly lower them until the arms hang loosely at the sides.

If you notice that one shoulder is higher than the other, give head to your hips. The hip on the other side is probably thrust up and the shoulder on that side sinks, the shoulder on the opposite side rising to balance it. So if one shoulder is high, correct your way of standing. Stand with the weight evenly divided and rest on the balls of your feet. Your shoulders will drop naturally into place. Keep them in place.

"Twisting the muscles of the back by gentle exercises strengthens them."

BEAUTY QUESTIONS ANSWERED

M. M. asks me to repeat the formula for Dr. Vauclair's bust-developing lotion, "which I have tried and found a wonderful remedy," she writes, "but the stupid druggist has lost the formula."

I suppose you refer to this:

Simple syrup: 40 grams.

Tincture of fennel: 10 grams.

Liquid extract of galega (goat's rue) 10 grams.

Lacto phosphate of lime: 10 grams.

This is a tonic Dr. Vauclair prescribed for some thin, nervous women to encourage them to eat enough to nourish them and cause them to take on plumpness:

Tincture of nux vomica: 3 grams.

Tincture of rhubarb: 2 grams.

Tincture of star anise: 3 grams.

A dose of six to ten drops of water before each meal.

G. M. says: "I have read your beauty articles for a long time and have been greatly benefited by them. I would like to know what will make the hair grow. Mine is short and thin. It seems dead. Also will you please write up what will develop the back?"

Probably you are anemic and require a general rebuilding of the system. The hair is a barometer that shows speedily the state of health and the quantity of strength. It sympathizes instantly with any lowering of the vitality. If you will sleep more, be at more pains to choose nourishing food, chew your food until it is like milk in the mouth, exercise enough to cause your blood to circulate well, you should in a few weeks or months note an improvement in the condition of your hair. Meanwhile, massage your scalp every night, rubbing vasoline or lanoline into it one night, and good tonic into it the next. This is such a tonic:

Oil of mace, 1 oz.

Alcohol, 1 oz.

This is also a popular formula:

Glycerine, 1 oz.

Spirits of lavender, 1 oz.

Tincture of rhatany, 2 1/2 drams.

Tincture of cantharides, 1 1/2 drams.

Quinine sulphate, 15 grains.

Enough alcohol to make the whole a 12-ounce mixture.

Let the hair have about the shoulders has value, both because the slight pull upon the roots is a kind of exercise for the roots, and for ventilation. The hair being "done up" all day, the scalp suffers from lack of air and sunlight, both good hair growers. I need scarcely say that the hair should be well brushed at night before retiring, and that long hair should be loosely braided, the ends being left free.

To develop the bust, improve the general health. Also take deep breathing exercises, such as I have many times described, several times a day, choosing a place where the air is purest. In a large city the roof is the best place.

"Does a face powder harm your face if washed off at night?" is her concluding question.

Pure rice powder can do no harm if removed at night with cold cream. Washing the face with water does not so effectually remove powder. Take the powder off with cold cream, which mixes better with it. Then cleanse the face with warm water and almond meal or oatmeal, or if you prefer it, with soap.
